CRASH KILLS 2; 1 DYING

Daring $5000 Fraud Plot is Balked

Comment by Chester H. Rowell

THE SECOND STAGE—Lloyd George points out the only encouraging feature of the present world situation. That is that the war-hatreds and the war-frazzle are calming down. Recent conferences have shown Europe in a better state of nerves. There are fewer actual wars, and there is less likelihood of new ones breaking out on small provocation.

True enough! But unfortunately not all the truth. Europe is less frazzled than it was, but also less alert.

A dull and sullen stubbornness has taken the place of former nervous irritabilify. Causeless war is less likely, and even the contagion of violent Bolshevism is no longer so near a menace, Europe would now have the time and the calmness to settle its problems, if it only had the courage and intelligence. War and violent revolution are less near, but collapse is nearer.

The state of Austria, which has not the courage either to succeed or to confess failure, is spreading over Europe. Stupor has taken the place of irritability. Time and rest would of course cure them all—if only there can be time enough for the rest.

MINIMUM WAGE—The announcement of a $16 weekly minimum wage for women in mercantile employment by the Industrial Welfare Commission is in itself a reply to the criticisms of those who assailed the commission for its alleged $13 budget. No such proposal was ever suggested or discussed by the commission; no budget was ever submitted implying it; nobody ever thought or spoke of any such wage scale, and no such question was involved. The whole loud protest was directed against a man of straw. Indignation meetings, resolutions of protest and public denunciations of the commission and of Mrs. Edson, its executive officer, for the pretended proposal of a $13 wage, were completely meaningless.

If they had been made in the commission, the answer would of course have been that there was not and never had been such a proposal, and no such idea was under consideration. In fact, just that answer was made, by the commission, publicly and officially. The protests would have been absolutely justified if there had been any such proposal.

To continue them, when it was known that there was and had been nothing of the sort, was completely unjustifiable. Any how, the announced decision sets all such cavils at rest.

WHY ONLY THE GUILTY?—The California Booze Protective Association offers its assistance to all motorists caught carrying liquors, by searches without seizure.

Why is the assistance not offered rather to those whose machines are searched without finding anything? If anybody's rights have been violated, these are certainly the important ones.

The others, confessedly, are lawbreakers. They claim that the evidence of their guilt was procured in an illegal manner, but they do not claim that they were not guilty.

Even the guilty, to be sure, have the right to be proven guilty by legal and not by illegal methods, and they have their right to their day in court, to show, if they can, that these particular methods were illegal. If they have any wrongs, the courts will redress them. But they have no right to any very excited interest in the court of public sympathy.

The right to stay out of jail belongs to the guilty, if illegally proven guilty. The right to have anybody care belongs to the innocent.

If there is any substantial, as distinguished from technical wrong, in these highway searches, it is the annoyance of the innocent. And the law-abiding among these probably do not care much.

WILSON "FAILED" — We all berated President Wilson for his "failure" at Versailles. He granted to France demands which he knew then, and the world knows now, would be ruinous even to France, and disastrous everywhere. Lloyd George, who also knew better, yielded the same things. Clemenceau got; not anything like all he demanded, but a great deal more than, even for his own good, he should have had. So Wilson and Lloyd George "failed" and we reproached Wilson for it.

Possibly we may mitigate our reproaches, now that the same thing has happened to everybody, at every subsequent conference. Even the Washington conference failed, on the only point in which France was interested. France forbade even the discussion of land disarmament, and it was not discussed. France, at every subsequent conference, has forbidden the discussion of any revision of the impossible Versailles conditions—and they have not been discussed. More than once the conferees, with the single exception of France, were unanimous—and it always went France's way. France says "no," and it is not done.

Wilson "failed". But subsequent experience seems to indicate that nobody can succeed where he failed.

FOIL MAN IN THEFT ATTEMPT

Move to Cash Stolen Warrant at County Treasury Circumvented

FALSE MUSTACHE IS UNDOING OF CRIMINAL

Woman Deputy's Suspicion Is Aroused by 'Makeup' of Visitor

The quick wit of a woman foiled a mysterious and crudely disguised stranger in a bold attempt to defraud the county of $5,322 at 11 a. m. here today, when he sought to cash a stolen warrent for that amount at the office of County Treasurer J. C. Joplin at the courthouse.

The man, who gave his name to Mrs. Marjorie Joplin, deputy county treasurer, as "M. E. Metcalfe," escaped before officers could arrive to arrest him.

His daring plot to defraud the county was spoiled by "magic gum," with which he had fastened on a false mustache.

Yesterday the county auditor mailed to E. I. Crook, Los Angeles implement dealer, 417 West Pico street, Los Angeles, a warrant for $5,322, in payment for a tractor and other supplies purchased.

Last night a person who gave his name as Crook, called County Auditor W. C. Jerome by telephone, and said that "M. E. Metcalfe" would come to Santa Ana today to cash the warrant. About 9 a. m. today, a similar message was received at the county treasurer's office, saying that "Mr. Metcalfe" was on his way to obtain the money to meet a payroll due for work near Santa Ana. The person on the telephone asked Mrs. Joplin to tell "Mr. Metcalfe" to return to Los Angeles instead of going to San Diego.

Clerks Suspect Nothing

Suspecting nothing, clerks in the treasurer's office were prepared to meet the demand when the mysterious man stepped up to the window today.

A second glance aroused the suspicions of Mrs. Joplin, however. The stranger, about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 135 pounds and apparently 25 years old, was attired in a gray overcoat and a gray cap, pulled down over his eyes. Close scrutiny revealed the fact that a brown mustache, matching his hair, was false, and was glued on by a tell-tale bit of gum.

Certain that the stranger was about to perpetrate some fraud, Mrs. Joplin refused to honor the draft without further identification.

Whereupon "Metcalfe" said that he would go to the office of the county auditor for that purpose. He left, but failed to enter the auditor's office, and was seen no more.

Consults Ex-Deputy

Former Under Sheriff E. E. French was nearby, and Mrs. Joplin consulted him. His investigation disclosed the fact that Crook had never received the warrant, and that no member of his firm had been in telephonic communication with county officials recently.

Officials of the implement firm were unable to give any clue as to the identity of the stranger.

French immediately notified Sheriff C. E. Jackson, with whom he began co-operating in an attempt to overtake the swindler before he left Orange county.

An excellent description of the purported "Mr. Metcalfe" was secured, and authorities were hopeful of his apprehension.

Mrs. Joplin and Miss Gladys Fifield, also a deputy county treasurer, were alone in the office at the time the attempted fraud took place. They were highly praised for their quick-witted and courageous conduct.

BIERWAGEN GETS LIQUOR.

DENVER, Jan. 6.—The first permit filed this year for liquor for sacramental purposes bore the name of the Rev. F. V. Bierwagen.

White House Overseer Tells Solons Mansion Is Fire Trap

WASHINGTON, Jan 6.—The White house is a fire trap, Colonel C. C. Sherrill, overseer of the executive mansion, reported today to the house appropriations committee.

Sherrill said the presidential home was "an easy victim for any incendiary effort."

The committee thereupon included $25,000 to start repair work on the structure in the independent offices bill, it reported today.

CALL FIRST MEETING OF DEBT BODIES

British and American Commissions to Open Hearings Monday on Huge Settlement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. — The first business meeting of the United States and British debt funding commissions to settle the question of payment of the British debt of more than $4,000,000,000 to this country, will be held here Monday at 10 a. m., Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced today.

The sessions will be held in the treasury department.

The members of both commissions will meet informally tonight at the British embassy where Ambassador Geddes will give a dinner in honor of the British negotiators, Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

SHERIFF NAMES BATES, SCOTT AS BAILIFFS

Sam Jernigan, who at noon Monday will become sheriff of Orange county, today announced the appointment of W. E. Bates, night desk sergeant at the Santa Ana police station, as bailiff in department No. 2 of the superior court, and S. J. Scott, former member of the local police force, as bailiff in department No. 1. These appointments complete Jernigan's staff.

At the same time Claude Rogers, city marshal, announced that Ed Boynton, old time police officer of the city, would be appointed as Bates's successor, and that Boynton would assume his duties Monday at 4 p. m.

Bates first became identified with the Santa Ana police department about a year ago as license investigator. He formerly was employed by a railroad company as a special investigator.

Was Assistant Jailer.

Scott served on the force here a year and a half. He resigned a year and a half ago to become assistant county jailer. He held that position eight or nine months.

Meanwhile, today, there was a flurry of house-cleaning at the sheriff's office as C. E. Jackson and his aides prepared to relinquish their duties to Jernigan.

Under the direction of Mrs. Birdie Swanwick, assisted by Miss Cora Kurrie, chief deputy under Jernigan, books and records were brought strictly up-to-date, and even the quarters were tidied up a bit in honor of the newcomers.

At the jail, all was changed. Theo Lacy, for the past decade jailer, had moved his furniture from his apartment to 319 West First street, where he will reside. There too, all records were made ship-shape.

Jernigan "Breaking In"

At the sheriff's office, Jernigan was "breaking in" to the work, while O. Moncrief, newly appointed jailer, was learning how to "work" the keys at that institution.

Sheriff Jackson will retire for a time at least, he reaffirmed today. What his intentions are after he secures the rest which he has promised himself, he was unprepared to say.

C. M. Wood, who has been acting as assistant jailer and deputy sheriff, was also unprepared to announce his plans. He did intimate, however, that he has had an opportunity to become a peace officer in the northern portion of the county.

Lacy will not engage in any business for some time, he stated. He refused to discuss the probability, frequently hinted, that he will be a candidate for city marshal here at the spring elections.

CHARGE MOB VICTIMS MUTILATED

HOT CONTEST LOOMING IN ASSEMBLY

Fight Over Speakership Causes Stir Among Gathering Solons

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 6.—The stage is set for the grand opening of the forty-fifth legislative session here Monday.

With the crack of the first gavel will come action in the city of a bitter fight. It will be a tussle between reactionary and progressive forces, with the control of the state at stake.

First will develop the fight for speakership of the assembly. Supporters of Frank Merriam, Long Beach, have been reported exceedingly busy. They were the first to arrive.

Merriam's opponent for the speakership, Al Rosenshine, San Francisco, arrived today. While Merriam was claiming 53 votes today, two less than yesterday, Rosenshine kept his peace. But as the hours wear on until Monday morning, it will become more apparent that the contest will be bigger than one of sectionalism between the north and the south, between the advocates of reapportionment and its opponents, or between individuals.

Friends of Rosenshine claim that indications point to a victory for him, pointing out that "Merriamists are making feverish onslaughts" on every assemblyman.

After the speakership fight is over and Friend W. Richardson is inaugurated as governor, the reapportionment fight will develop. Political observers assert that the farmers will join hands with the San Francisco forces to prevent action, which, under the proposed bill would give control of the state over to the counties south of the Techapapi.

Undoubtedly the biggest fight of the entire session will develop after January 31, when the governor presents the state budget. Right now the board of control is locked in, working over the budgets of the various departments.

Intimation that the slashes in state expenses, promised by Richardson in his election campaign, will be surprising, is had in comment of Gilbert Daniels, chairman of the board of control.

"I had no idea the slashes would be so big," he declared. "We're cutting the heart out of things, but it has to be done."

Then will come the administration's re-organization bills, now being prepared by Mrs. Nellie Pierce, of Los Angeles, to be appointed to the board of control by Richardson.

Another fight will be on the fire insurance legislation. Insurance company lobbyists are reported already in the field.

A matter that promises to be given considerable attention is the Norwalk oil field, on which is situated the insane asylum near Whittier, and which is owned by the state. It is said 30 to 50 millions of dollars worth of oil is in the field. How the state should sell it, lease it or develop it, is to be the issue.

Friends of the water and power act, defeated at the November election, promise to demand an accounting of the campaign against the bill.

Plan Gas Tax Measure

Corporations will again come in the limelight in the proposed one cent tax of gasoline. If such legislation goes through it subjects the corporations to taxes on all their auto trucks, despite the exemption allowed them under the King bill from any tax excepting gross receipts.

A tug of war between the southern branch of the University of California and the mother institution is contemplated. Assemblyman Charles Lyon is here with plans to "put the southern branch on absolute equal footing with the Berkeley institution." In this connection will come the plan for $500,000 appropriation for enlarging the Berkeley college of agriculture.

The legislature begins Monday noon with the speakership fight. Then comes organization of both houses. Richardson will be inaugurated Tuesday afternoon or evening.

HEAVY RAINS HALT BRIDGE RESCUE WORK

Swollen Stream Perils Workers in Hunt for Bodies of Victims of Kelso Disaster.

KELSO, Wash., Jan. 6.—Torrential rains, which have fallen steadily since the bridge disaster Wednesday evening, have swollen the Cowlitz river to double its depth. Logs and driftwood are racing down upon salvage workers, each one a potential messenger of death. Despite the menace the Pacific Bridge company's derrick the crew continued its work in midstream.

In the face of this new menace grapplers have forsaken their search for bodies in midstream and are combing the eddies and back waters along the banks. No dynamiting had been done in the Cowlitz this morning, and probably will be postponed until Sunday, according to Portland Police Inspector C. E. Klingensmith, in charge of this work.

No bodies had been found up to 10:30 this morning and the list of known missing still remains at twenty.

FRENCH READY FOR INVASION OF GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A resolution expressing the sentiments of the senate in favor of withdrawal of American troops from Germany was passed late today.

(United Press Leased Wire)

PARIS, Jan. 6.—At an important secret meeting at the Elyssee this afternoon, President Millerand, Premier Poincare, Marshal Foch and General Maginot put the finishing touches on France's plan for military entrance into the Ruhr.

Necessary dispositions of troops were agreed upon, it was understood, and the first step will be to send infantry to Essen to protect French engineers in the coal district.

REPORT FRENCH PLANES SCOUTING OVER GERMANY.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—French airplanes crossed the Rhineland and hovered over Mannheim yesterday, apparently spying out the land preparatory to military action, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Central News today.

REPARATIONS COMMISSION TO HEAR GERMAN PLEA.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Germany appealed today for an opportunity to explain reparations defaults and avert occupation of the Ruhr by France.

The reparations commission agreed to hear on Monday the German explanation of failure to deliver the required amount of coal before declaring her in default.

Great Britain will take part in the meeting and should the explanation be accepted, trouble in the Rhineland-Ruhr would be temporarily avoided. It was predicted, however, that Germany could not satisfactorily explain the defaults and that the French would continue with their plans for enforcing payments.

TO CALL U. S. TROOPS HOME AS OCCUPATION BEGINS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—American troops will be ordered withdrawn from Germany the moment France begins a military occupation of the Ruhr valley, a high government official said today.

This action will be taken as a protest against the threatened French action, which this government always has strongly disapproved and which it believes menaces the peace of Europe.

2 WHITE, 4 NEGROES DEAD IN RACE RIOT

ROSEWOOD, Fla., Jan. 6.—Two whites and four negroes were killed and part of Rosewood burned in the two days of race rioting here.

The negroes shortly before whites planned a mass attack on their stronghold capitulated last night and permitted a search for Jess Hunter, wanted for an attack on a white girl.

The negro was not found.

DOCTORS AIR HORRORS IN SLAYING

Examination Shows Lousiana Men Tortured By Murder Gang

(By United Press Leased Wire)

COURTHOUSE, BASTROP, La., Jan. 6.—Coolly, scientifically, Watt Daniel and Thomas F. Richards were crushed to death by hooded terrorists, pathologists who examined the broken mutilated bodies, testified today in the open hearing here.

With barbarous ingenuity and callous indifference, hands, heads and feet were wrenched from the battered bodies, Dr. Charles W. Duval and Dr. John A. Lanford testified.

Scientific means were used to break each arm in three places and then the chest cavities of the helpless victims, one a World War veteran and the other his friend—were smashed in by "pressure applied from front and from back," the witness declared.

Gruesome Outrages

The most gruesome outrages in the pages of history were outdone that night behind the veil of dense foliage in a sheltered spot in the wooded section near Mer Rouge after Daniel's father had been brutally beaten and two others had been severely flogged by the hooded horror. The Spanish inquisitions, Turkish outrages and tortures of Apaches in the '49 days were far less inhuman than the tragedy of that black night as described in Louisiana's noted public hearing.

Cloaked in unemotional language of the man of science, also was described a crude operation, a revolting butchery—which had been performed on Daniel before his life was viciously crushed out.

Rumor generally had credited the murders to a rage of fury by one mob member who had been unmasked as Daniel battled to free himself. The story had been whispered about that after the unmasking Daniel and Richards had been shot down to prevent them exposing the men.

The two reports are practically identical, except that the crude operation performed on Daniel was not committed in the case of Richards. Much of the findings under "pertinent comments" are unprintable.

DR. HARWOOD AND MR. WONDER MAKE STATEMENT FACTS

Editor Register: The article appearing in The Santa Ana Register last evening, relative to my being arrested compels me to make this statement in defense: I was not present at the time of the bottle incident at Balboa New Year's eve, I was upstairs in the pavilion dancing. I did not own the bottle of bootleg liquor, nor have I ever in my life bought one ounce of it. I was not carrying the overcoat at the time, nor did I place the bottle in the coat, nor did I know it was there. I simply paid the fine because I appeared technically guilty, and do not enjoy having those things unnecessarily aired—so paid the fine. I am not complaining of the stand the officers were obliged to take. They were simply performing their duty, and I firmly believe in obedience to the law. I think most people will believe the absolute truth of the above—the skeptical will not—and we care but little about that class, anyway.

D. A. HARWOOD.

* * * *

In defense of Dr. Harwood, I wish to say that the above is the absolute truth. Doctor and his wife and myself and wife and several other couples formed the party. We were leaving the pavilion at about 11 p. m. to return home, the Doctor having remained to fill one more dance engagement. He did not own the bottle nor was he present when the incident happened. I begged the Doctor to permit me to make this statement in this paper Thursday, but he advised that it would only add food for gossipers.

Hoover Refuses to Become Head of Interior Department

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover today declined an offer of President Harding to become secretary of the interior, succeeding Albert B. Fall, who will retire March 4.

Secretary Hoover, in a conference at the White House today informed the president that he desired to remain in his present position in order to complete the work which he had mapped out on a large scale when he entered office at the beginning of the Harding administration.

Hoover has been forming an organization in the department of commerce which he hopes will be instrumental in greatly extending America's commerce.

Temperatures were around freezing with colder weather predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

H. B. CO. LANDS ACQUIRED BY STANDARD

The Standard Oil company of California has acquired a controlling interest in the holdings of the Huntington Beach company, the real estate and development firm which laid out the city and had a great deal to do with making Huntington Beach what it is, according to word received here today.

The Standard Oil company has extensive plans in regard to the development of its new properties, it was said, but any information in that regard will have to come directly from the directors of the corsporation and not from Southern California officials, it was pointed out.

The transaction was consumated a week ago.

D. F. Martin, superintendent of the land and lease department of the company, with headquarters in Los Angeles, confirmed the announcement when he was asked regarding reports emanating from Huntington Beach to the effect that the city was on the verge of its greatest development through the transfer of the property to the Standard corporation.

Although he would add nothingg to them, the statements were not denied by J. F. Lawshe, secretary-treasurer of the Huntington Beach company, who also was called at Los Angeles.

Huntington Beach will go forward even more rapdily than it has before by virtue of the purchase, citizens and property owners there declare. They are plainly delighted with the transfer, and are looking forward eagerly for the announcement of the Standard plans.

Daily royalties on the oil produced on land which was owned by the Huntington Beach company have been set at approximately $25,000.

Many acres of valuable oil land, as yet undrilled, were covered in the transaction, it was said. Included also were many of the best business blocks in the city and valuable residential property. The Huntington Beach company also owned the water works, the plunge and all the concessions along the beach for eight blocks in the main part of the city.

AUTO LAW ARRESTS ON DECLINE IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—Heavy decrease in the number of cases of reckless driving and traffic law violations since the police inaugurated a campaign against such offenders, was indicated today in figures compiled at police headquarters.

During October 690 cases were handled in the police courts; in November the figures dropped to 412 and in December the number was down to 196.

DENSE FOG BLAMED FOR BIG COLLISION

Touring Car Plunges With Terrific Impact Into Parked Vehicle

While physicians and nurses labored here today to save the life of Mrs. Minnie Woodward, 812 North Birch street, who received serious injuries in a motor crash in which Miss Pauline Morehouse, 24, and Ralph L. Smith, 20, were killed near Westminster last night, sheriff's deputies and Coroner C. D. Brown continued their investigation of the accident and made plans for an inquest, to be held here Monday.

Two others, J. E. Ferguson and Norval H. Allcock, both of Santa Ana, received painful injuries but will recover, physicians reported

The crash occurred, deputy sheriffs declared, when a five-ton truck, owned by W. E. Wells of Huntington Beach, stopped on the highway to enable Wells and his son, Frederick, 16, to make repairs to the headlights.

"From what I can gather," said Coroner C. D. Brown here today, "the accident occurred at 9 p. m., in a dense fog, about 900 feet around the corner from the second oil station this side of Westminster, on the Huntington Beach-Westminster boulevard.

"Norvall H. Allcock, 812 North Birch street, driving a touring car belonging to his father, was taking a party of friends to Long Beach. The group included Ralph L. Smith, Miss Pauline Morehouse, J. E. Ferguson and Mrs. Minnie Woodward.

Crashes Into Truck.

"Wells, who operates a fleet of motor trucks in the oil fields, was en route from Huntington Beach to Signal Hill with a load of pipe. When young Wells, said to be driving, stopped the truck to repair the headlights, Allcock, driving the touring car, came up in the rear, failed to see the vehicle parked alongside the road, and crashed into the heavily-laden truck. Smith and Miss Morehouse, frightfully injured, were killed almost instantly."

According to Deputy Sheriffs Theo Lacy, Joe Irvine and C. M. Wood, who investigated the crash, Allcock saw the fruck too late to avoid a collision.

"Allcock, who was sitting alongside Smith, attempted to turn out," said Wood, "but it was too late. He was too close to the heavy load of pipe, which protruded from the rear of the truck. He swerved the touring car slightly, but sections of the pipe smashed through the windshield, struck Smith and Miss Morehouse, with great violence, and injured the others more or less seriously.

Impact Frightful.

"The chassis of the truck was sixteen feet long, and there were eight sections of pipe, the longest section of which stuck out over the rear of the truck fully four feet. The right side of the touring car struck the left side of the truck, moving the heavy vehicle three or four feet, according to Wells. The impact must have been frightful.

"Bits of glass, a woman's ear ring, pieces of someone's eyeglasses and other articles were jammed into the protruding pipe and were found near the far end of the load. Smith and Miss Morehouse, struck squarely in the forehead, were terribly injured by the crushing blow from the pipe, which struck them in the eyes and fractured their skulls.

"The touring car was wedged under the rear of the truck. Lyle Soden, Smeltzer, and O. A. Henry, Long Beach, gave first aid and removed Smith and Allcock to Huntington Beach. Mrs. Woodward, Miss Morehouse and Ferguson were rushed to the Community hospital in Santa Ana. Miss Morehouse was dead when examined at the hospital."

Truck Man Aids Injured

Wells, after assisting passing motorists in removing the injured, placed a white lantern on the rear of his truck and proceeded toward Long Beach. His rear light, it was

'Butcher' Clue in Baby Slaying

TRUCK DRIVER IS SOUGHT IN TOT'S DEATH

While Coroner C. D. Brown was preparing to hold an inquest at 4 p. m. today over the body of the new-born baby boy, found swathed in newspapers and a jute sack on the Los Alamitos boulevard Thursday evening, authorities were developing a strong clue, which, they hoped, might lead to the apprehension of the person responsible for the murder of the little one.

Coincidence may be responsible for the solution of the mystery which surrounded the finding of the tiny form, still in death, with no marks of identification.

Thursday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff C. M. Wood was driving toward Long Beach, when he observed a truck, used for delivering meat from a Long Beach market, parked at the side of the highway. He observed a man, emerging from the ditch at the roadside.

Recalls Strange Incident

Dismissing the incident with a mental note as to its strangeness, Wood thought no more of it until he learned of finding the body of the babe in almost the same spot.

Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, who accompanied Coroner C. D. Brown to the scene where the body was found, reported at the time that the body was partially frozen. This fact served to substantiate the belief that the "butcher" had been involved in the alleged crime, and that probably the tiny form had been in cold storage for several days.

Wood, who will retire from his position as a deputy sheriff next Monday, turned over his information to Zabel who will remain under Sheriff-elect Sam Jernigan.

Zabel will conduct a rigid investigation in an effort to locate the driver of the "butcher truck," he said. Should the man be located he will be rigorously questioned, it was stated.

O. K. Carr, special investigator from the office of District Attorney A. P. Nelson, was assigned to the case yesterday and had spent several hours endeavoring to run down some clue.

The search was virtually fruitless, he reported today. The sack was ordinary, and the newspapers bore but three marks which might lead to their identification. The word "red", scribbled on the margin of a page was the only feature which was out of the ordinary.

Meanwhile, although there was little hope of introducing evidence which might clarify the situation, Coroner Brown was prepared to hold an inquest at Smith and Tuthill's funeral chapel this afternoon.

FARM CENTER WILL HEAR TALK ON OIL

H. R. Johnson, Los Angeles petroleum engineer graduate of Stanford university, will give an illustrated lecture on oil as the principal feature of the El Modena farm center's meeting Monday at 7:30 p. m., it was announced today.

Johnson, who was for a number of years a member of the federal geologisol survey and who is now chairman of the Southern California section of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, will deliver his lecture gratuitously and at the urgent solicitation of the program committee, it was stated. His talk will have no connection with any oil stock promotion plan.

The program will include songs by Miss Hellis and a brief address on Orange county farm bureau policies by R. D. Flaherty, retiring secretary-manager of that organization.

The public is invited.

LONG BEACH PRAISED FOR HAVING CHOSEN WOMAN CITY AUDITOR

LONG BEACH, Jan. 6.—Long Beach is congratulated by the president of the American Tree association on having a woman city auditor.

The president of the association Charles Lathrop Pack, writing from Washington, national headquarters, predicts a new social order, with women editing newspapers, managing municipalities and exercising other important public functions.

Writing to Miss Myrtelle L. Gunsul President Pack says:

"With the greatest interest I have just read that you are the city auditor of Long Beach and I wish to congratulate the city upon it. Just the other day I read an article which said that a new social order was upon us and that women were getting into everything, including the editing and managing of newspapers, and if I may venture the opinion I think we need have no fears as to what the new social order will bring us if women can be editors of newspapers and managers of municipalities."

Discover Newport Man's Auto In Hands of Oakland Money Lender

Disclosing a novel scheme whereby automobile thieves may obtain money on a stolen car without risking its sale, City Marshal C. L. Rogers today told of the recovery in Oakland, of a touring car stolen from Eugene Fenelson, Newport Beach, November 24, 1922.

The machine is in the possession of a money lender in Oakland, Rogers was informed. There is still $132.90 due on the car, this amount having been loaned on it.

A John Doe warrant was issued today through the district attorney's office here, in an effort to apprehend the thief. Meanwhile D. W. Tubbs, of the Automobile Club of Orange county, with which Fenelson was insured, was on his way to Oakland to investigate.

CITY MARSHAL TO ENFORCE PARKING LAW STRICTLY IN FUTURE

The motorist who violates the two hour parking ordinance will find himself in trouble.

This was made clear today when City Marshal L. C. Rogers announced his intention to wage war on such persons.

"Violations of this ordinance are becoming more frequent," Rogers declared. "I have instructed my officers to take drastic action.

"I would call attention to the fact that moving a car from one position to another does not relieve one of responsibility."

SLY NAG TOYS WITH FIRE ALARM, GIVING DEPARTMENT A RUN

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—Rex, the knowing old gray horse that delivers milk up in Washington Heights, became bored today as he waited for his assistant, Joseph Smith, to return with a consignment of empties. So he leaned up against a post and began to play himself some chimes on the fire alarm box attached there, using his nose to wiggle the alarm hook. He played until he had summoned enough apparatus to put out a half a dozen fires, declared the policeman who summoned Smith to appear in court. Smith protested, but vainly, that if Rex was smart enough to turn in the false alarms, Rex and not Smith should go to court and take the punishment.

MAN IN CACTUS PLUNGE CASE SURRENDERS

K. S. Barnett, 30, of 626 South Hill street, Los Angeles, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Glenys Smart, 19, pretty half-sister of Madalynne Obenchain, today voluntarily appeared in the court of Justice J. B. Cox here for arraignment. His preliminary hearing was set for February 9 at 2 p. m. and he was released under $500 cash bail.

Barnett, accompanied by his brother, Clarence Barnett, walked into justice court and said he understood he was wanted in Orange county in connection with the harrowing experiences of Miss Smart on the lonely, cactus-infested mesa overlooking Newport harbor. He declared he wanted to surrender and said he was ready to furnish bail. Clarence Barnett deposited $500 bond.

According to the story told Orange county officers by Miss Smart, Barnett, described as an oil stock salesman, brought her to Santa Ana from Los Angeles.

She was deserted, she asserted, after she accompanied Barnett to the cactus-lined bluffs near the Long Beach Consolidated oil shaft, on the bluffs below Costa Mesa.

When found by dredge workers, Miss Smart, virtually nude, was in a state of collapse.

After county hospital nurses had removed hundreds of cactus thorns from her legs, arms and back she was permitted to return to Los Angeles.

The young woman was accompanied to her home by A. G. Barnes, 840 South Flower street, Los Angeles.

Barnes, she explained, is one of her best friends.

Barnett refused to discuss the charges here today.

NEW 'FIRST OF YEAR' RECORD IS SET UP

Six days only of the New Year have passed, yet Santa Anans already have applied for building permits calling for construction totaling more than $100,000, it was learned from the records of W. S. Decker, building inspector, today.

"This without question is a first of the year record for this department," Decker said.

The permit that carried the total valuation over $100,000 was that issued to the Southern California Edison company, of which W. L. Diemling is district manager, for the erection of a new store and garage building, valued at $22,000, at the corner of Santiago and Washington streets.

Work of laying out the ground for the new power company structures was begun today.

"I purchased the property for these buildings some time ago," Diemling said, "but was not expecting the actual work of buildings to begin at this time. Unannounced, a member of our engineering department at Los Angeles came here, took out the permit and immediately began clearing the grounds. The buildings are expected to be ready for occupancy in 70 days.

"The present storage and garage building at Second and Sycamore streets probably will be remodeled as an assembly hall and a club room.

"I should not be surprised if the Southern California Edison company decides to erect an office building in Santa Ana in the near future."

BRITISH TO INSIST ON TURKISH ACTION

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LAUSANNE, Jan. 6. — Great Britain, having withdrawn from the Paris reparations conference, called for a "show down" at the Lausanne parley this afternoon.

Marquis Curzon, foreign minister and head of the British delegation, summoned a full session of the commission on capitulations for four o'clock announcing it was for the purpose of hearing the Turks' final word.

Unless Ismet Pasha, head of the Kemalist delegation, presents a project fully admitting the principle of guarantees for foreigners upon which not only Britain, but the United States insisted, Curzon said the conference would end.

It was generally believed the Turks would offer a basis for further discussion.

CREDIT ASSOCIATION TO ESTABLISH BRANCH

Three score merchants of Fullerton are ready to affiliate with the Orange County Credit Men's association, Robert Conway, president and manager of the association, announced here today, following a meeting of the advisory board with merchants at the Fullerton club rooms last night.

It was decided that headquarters should be established at once for the northern Orange county division of the association. These will be at the Chamber of Commerce, with G. A. Raymer, secretary of the chamber, as directing head of the division. A complete reporting service will be installed at once, Conway said.

Conway said this completes the county organization, which is rapidly nearing the 300 membership mark.

A dinner preceded the meeting.

COUNTY'S POULTRY MEN NAME LEADERS

Seven temporary directors of the newly formed poultry department of the Orange county farm bureau today were circulating through the county in an effort to draw all poultrymen into the organization.

By-laws as drafted at a recent meeting by W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor, were adopted by the organization at a meeting here last night.

E. H. Hogsett, president of the poultry department of the Los Angeles county farm bureau, outlined the nicreased prosperity of Los Angeles county poultrymen as a result of the bureau organization. Tom Hurley, field representative of the Poultry Producers' association and supervisor-elect of San Diego county, gave specific instances of such added profits.

The seven temporary directors elected were A. E. Block, Costa Mesa; W. S. Hatch, Tustin; Frank Greenleaf, Santa Ana; H. R. Howell, Garden Grove; F. B. Jones, Buena Park; S. J. Scally, Cypress, and Ford Heying, Anaheim.

These directors will serve until the various farm centers have organized their individual poultry centers and elected a director to represent them on th poultry department board, Cory explained. The directors will elect their president, he said.

explained, was smashed in the collision.

Officers, arriving upon the scene a few minutes after the accident, were informed that Wells had failed to give first aid to Allcock and other members of the party.

Investigating this report in Long Beach, Orange county officers learned, they said today, that Wells had done everything possible to aid the victims.

"His sleeves were blood-stained and his statement was straightforward," said Deputy Sheriff Lacy, discussing the arrest of Wells by Long Beach authorities. "He told us he did everything in his power, waited until the victims had been removed, and then, in order to clear the road, drove on to Long Beach, where he expected to report the accident. His explanation was satisfactory and he was released, but was requested to appear here today."

Wife, Babe Survive

Smith, who was a graduate of Santa Ana high school, married Miss Mary McDonald of Irvine about two years ago. He is survived by his wife and their ten-months-old baby. Mrs. Smith, who was in Long Beach, expected to accompany the party to Santa Ana on the return trip.

Miss Morehouse, who was well and favorably known here, was a milliner and had just returned from a visit to Wichita, Kans. Mrs. Woodward, a widow with a small son, resided with Allcock, her brother, at 812 North Birch street. Ferguson, a newcomer, is a cousin of Allcock and Mrs. Woodward.

Smith, whose parents reside in Tustin, was part owner of the battery service at the C. L. Martin Ignition Works here. Allcock, also a mechanic, was formerly employed at the same place.

At the Community hospital it was said that Mrs. Woodward, suffering from a large fracture of the skull and a deep cut on the forehead, is in a critical condition. Allcock and Ferguson, escaping miraculously, sustained cuts about the face and scalp. Both will probably recover.

EXECUTION BY GAS UPHELD BY JUDGES

(By United Press Leased Wire)

CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 6. — Constitutionality of Nevada's law, passed two years ago, providing for inflicting the death penalty on convicted murderers by asphyxiation in a lethal gas chamber, was upheld by the state supreme court today.

The decision was handed down in the cases of George Jon and Huey Sing, Chinese tong men, both formerly of San Francisco, accused of killing another Chinese in a Tong outbreak at Mina, Nevada. They have been in the state penitentiary for months while their case was before the state supreme court on appeal.

The decision, it was believed, will also mean execution of a third man, held under similar sentence but as a result of another murder.

The supreme court directed the mineral county district court to set a date for execution of the two Chinese.

PHYSICIANS HOPE FOR COMPLETION OF FUND SOUGHT FOR HOSPITAL

With subscriptions to the fund for building a new hospital by the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association today standing at $86,000, physicians engaged in the drive for subscriptions were confident that by the end of the month they would reach the goal of $100,000, established as the mark for February 1.

Reports made by the teams at a luncheon held at the Cat 'n Fiddle yesterday disclosed that substantial pledges had been made during the week.

When the $100,000 mark is reached, it is possible that other plans will be developed for raising the rest of the amount estimated os needed to provide this city with a modern plant for treatment of the sick.

With the departure yesterday of Dr. C. D. Ball for Sacramento to attend the session of the state legislature, Dr. J. M. Burlew, as vice president of the Santa Ana Valley hospital association, today became the directing head of the campaign.

1922 GOOD POSTAL YEAR.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—Postmaster T. C. DeLapp reports a very prosperous year for the Huntington Beach office. The big increase came in October, November and December, 1922, when the receipts were $7355.88, against $5301.25 for the same period 1921.

The receipts comparative for the two years follow:

	1921	1922

Apr., May, June..	3,613.41	4,873.82

Oct., Nov., Dec....	5,301.25	7,355.88
Totals for years	$15,490.65	$21,477.81

WOOLWINE MAY HEAD INDEPENDENT FILMS

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney of Los Angeles county and defeated Democratic candidate for governor, may resign soon to accept a $25,000 position as head of a number of independent motion picture producing companies.

The position has been tendered Woolwine, it was declared today. Woolwine stated that he had the matter under consideration.

The organization, known as the Independent Producing Managers association, is composed of smaller companies which have banded together in an effort to reduce costs and lower high brokerage fees to the large distributing agencies controlled by the big companies.

Woolwine in his new capacity would be a "little Will Hays" of the independents. His work would be that of an organizer and efficiency expert, it was pointed out, and would not include any obligation to "chaperon Hollywood."

300 OF BIBLE STUDY CLASS MEET HERE

Three hundred members of the Santa Ana junior high school Bible credit class today were glad they enrolled for the Bible study course here last fall, despite the fact that the state of California has ruled that they will receive no graduation marks for the work they did.

The 300 showed they were glad last night beyond the shadow of a doubt when, in the banquet rooms of the First Baptist church, they stowed away 300 plates of appetizing food, devoured 300 heaping dishes of pink ice cream in close to record time, and on top of that listened to a "peach" of a program which was prepared by the Bible credit class committee.

Harry Garstang, music instructor at the junior high school, sang a solo. Miss Lucille Miller rendered a whistling solo. Miss Kauffman, of the First Methodist church, told those present they were pioneers in the Bible credit class plan and urged that they stay with their task to the end.

"Many strive to reach a goal," she said, "but are unequal to the task and fall by the wayside. They are never heard of again. The person who gets somewhere is the one who sticks to his task and sticks to the finish."

Miss Mary Arnold of the First Christian church delivered a reading. The students also heard brief talks by H. G. Nelson, principal of the junior high school, and Ralph Smedley, building secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

KFAW PLAN FOR BIG PROGRAMS ANNOUNCED

Hello, radio!

The next Register program will be one of the best ever.

When the broadcasting commences next Monday night all radios tuned to KFAW will stay put from 8 o'clock until 9 because The Register has secured some of Orange county's leading musicians and one of the county's best speakers for the evening.

Earl Frazer, well known pianist and vocalist, and Leon Eckles, one of the favorite musicians of this city will sing a number of solos and duets. Frazer's tenor voice so resembles that of Eckles that when the two sing duets with solo parts it is almost impossible to tell when one begins and the other stops. Miss Ruth Armstrong will act as accompanist on the piano.

In addition to these musical numbers Miss Mable Krause, who numbers on former KFAW programs, received enthusiastic comment, will play a number of piano solos.

"The Development of a Parental Home in Orange County," will be the subject of a talk by R. R. Miller, county probation officer.

Miller is an excellent speaker and radio fans will be eager to hear him.

The program for Thursday, January 11, will feature vocal solos by Miss Laura Joiner, of Fullerton, and Stanley Reed of Santa Ana and an address by District Attorney A. P. Nelson.

Miss Joiner has been singing at the First Baptist church here during the past few months. Reed's ability will be devoted this time to the rendition of character songs.

The methods and means of enforcing the Wright law will be discussed by Nelson.

The program for Monday, January 15, will be given by the choir quartette of the First Methodist church.

WOMEN SOIL PAVING IN PARIS IS CHARGE

PARIS, Jan. 6—Now, after Paris has spent millions in repaving many of the principal streets, the reason why wood pavings deteriorate so rapidly has been discovered. Women, who have been blamed for so many troubles, are now being held responsible for this destruction, for it is charged that their high heels are most damaging to the wooden blocks when damp. Women's heels today are being made so narrow at the base as to be almost points, and these penetrate into wood, making holes in which the water settles, rotting the paving.

The city councilor says if this is the real reason women will be made to feel the discomfort of walking on stone pavings.

ALLEGED SHORT CHANGE MEN ARE HELD

Details of what authorities claim is a well conceived plan to defraud Santa Ana merchants in a short change game, were expected to be disclosed today when E. L. Ford and John Hooper, arreested last night in the store of Mayo brothers, East Fourth street, were arraigned before City Recorder W. F. Heathman.

When they were arrested, police say, Hooper had eight sets of dice on his person. Two of the "dominoes" were found concealed in his sock, two in a package of cigarettes, and the rest in pockets of his clothing.

Both men were exceptionally well dressed, police declared, wearing new clothing, silk shirts, and beaver hats.

Their scheme, according to authorities, was to purchase some small article, and tender a $10 bill in payment. Receiving more than $9 in change, the men would then remark that there had been a mistake; that they had given the clerk only $1 instead of $10 .

Rapid explanations were calculated to confuse the clerk, and in the excitement and confusion, the men would "gyp" the employe of a quantity of money.

The proprietor of Mayo brothers said that his cash was $9.90 short after the men were arrested. Both of the suspects had plenty of money on their persons when they were arrested, the police said.

City Marshal L. C. Rogers today asked any merchants who had been victimized in this manner, to report to him.

PAPYRUS YIELDS MUCH DATA ON EGYPTIANS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Problems of the farmer have not changed much in 4000 years, according to a letter, said to be the oldest in the world, which has just been brought to this city. It is written on a papyrus leaf and dated October 9, 2004, B. C. The "fifth year of the Reign, second month of Shomu, ninth day," the actual date, which members of the Metropolitan Museum's Egyptian expedition had to work out into modern reckoning from other indications of the document.

The writer, one Keganakht, lived in a small village near Thebes (in his time just made the capital of Egypt), but he was obliged to go to Memphis and remain there for months at a time, which entailed much separation from his family.

Lister Possession

Before making one of his trips, Hekanakht listed all his possessions, which he intrusted to his oldest son, Mersu, and his assistant overseer at home, and carefully provided for the exact rationing of each member of the large family. The statement of "bread given to Mersu, son of Kekanakht," for instance, brings a grand total of 7000 loaves, which includes three different kinds of bread. Baking at a farmhouse in those days seems to have gone ahead of the far-famed New England idea of the Saturday baking, but the loaves referred to were probably like the small Egyptian biscuit loaves of today.

After all the barley and fodder and species of cattle have been set down, there is an economical writing in of a second inventory of another year, when the father was leaving for a trip to Memphis—even the grove of trees from which timber is to be cut is carefully indicated.

Practiced Economy

The first letter is full of instructions about the economizing of the grain intrusted to Mersu, in fact, economy in everything is the keynote of all the admonitions. The suggestion of his son at home that the Nile was rising and the dikes might not hold calls forth a protest from the farmer, and he informs Mersu that if there is any flooding of the land and crop-loss, he will know whom to hold responsible. In a later letter, Tekanakht refers to a failure of crops, and urges the family to be patient with the slender stores which he is sending to them.

The story of the finding of these letters, 4000 years after they were written, is only a part of the account of H. E. Winlock, who during the past year was in charge of the excavations of the museum's expedition in the vicinity of Thebes. Other important results derived from excvaations conducted by A. C. Mace at Lisht, and the work of N. de Gavis Davies and his assistants in the copying of the painted scenes on the walls of private and royal tombs at Thebes are all part of the interesting new bulletin on the Egyptian expedition, just issued by the museum.

KIWANIANS CLUB AT LA HABRA BOOSTS CITY

LA HABRA, Jan. 6.—The La Habra Kiwanians had a good meeting on Thursday. Several communications concerning the Charter Presentation were read by Secretary Ferran. Suggestions for the work of the club for the coming year, which had previously been turned in to the secretary by the members of the club, were read and after some discussion were turned over to the directors for further consideration.

At a meeting of the directors in the evening all the propositions were given further study and committees were appointed to look into the three which seemed most feasible, which were, a swimming pool, a gymnasium and a camp in the mountains. These three committees are to report at the meeting next wek. The La Habra club plans to take up some definite piece of work for the welfare of the community.

A Father and Son banquet will be held in the social hall on Monday evening under the direction of the Men's Brotherhood of La Habra. The Brotherhood from the Friends' Church in Whittier are to furnish the entire program which will consist of musical numbers, instrumental and vocal, and an address by some member of the brotherhood. The Ladies' Aid of the Community Church will provide the dinner. A large attendance of men and boys is expected. The tickets are now on sale at the drug stores.

Twenty-five ladies attended the regular meeting of the Parent Teachers' association at the central school Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. W. A. Bloomer, who retired from the presidency at the last meeting, took charge. Mrs. William Snow has been elected president and will take charge at the next meeting. A membership contest is now being carried on by the children which will close at the next meeting.

The Ladies' Aid of the La Habra Community Church held the regular monthly business meeting in the social hall Thursday afternoon. Reports were heard from the sections and work for the coming year was planned. The organization has had a good year and is entering upon the work of another year with much interest.

RUBBER STAMP FINES HELD ILLEGAL

EAGLE ROCK, Jan. 6.—Motorists who have been fined for speeding in Eagle Rock traffic court within the past two years will be interested to know the complaints issued against them have been illegal. This was brought out yesterday in the case of H. H. Miner, chauffeur for J. O. Koepfli, who was charged with speeding.

Attorney David R. Faries, general counsel for the Auto Club of Southern California, who was defending Mr. Miner, took exception to the wording of the rubber stamp that for the past two years has been used on all complaints that charged speeding. City Attorney Rollin L. McNitt looked up the law and found that the defense attorney was right.

"The placing of that stamp on a complaint makes such complaint fatally defective," he informed the court when he moved to dismiss the case against Mr. Miner.

Judge Cruzan dismissed the case against Mr. Miner, and also the case against Mr. Koepfli, who was charged with disturbing the peace, charges that are said to have resulted at the time his chauffeur was arrested for speeding.

The rubber stamp has been ordered changed, and it is expected that many motorists who have been fined where this stamp was used on the complaint issued against them, will take steps to recover the amount of the fine that they paid into the city.

CHANGES URGED IN PRESS STANDARDS

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 6.—Charging that too much emphasis is placed upon technique in the teaching of journalism, Lee A. White, editorial secretary of the Detroit News, and former teacher of journalism, called upon the American Association of Teachers of Journalism at their annual banquet to incorporate into their teachings more of the philosophy the ethics, the deeper fundamentals of the profession of journalism.

The effort of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalistic fraternity, to create and enforce higher standards of ethics in the profession was set forth by Ward A. Neff, Chicago newspaper publisher and national president of the fraternity. He stated that both the fraternity and the schools of journalism are aiming at the same thing—the raising of ideals through putting out men with higher ideals.

Books dealing with matters that underlie the making of an intelligent and well written newspaper were recommended by Nelson Antrim Crawford, Kansas State Agricultural college, and John L. Brumm, University of Michigan, to the American Association of Teachers of Journalism during the day.

Teaching originality in news writing was stressed by both C. P. Cooper, Columbia university, and George P. Stone of the Chicago Daily News. H. F. Harrington, Joseph Medill School of Journalism, and Grant M. Hyde, University of Wisconsin, brought out the value of giving purpose and vitality to composition writing in the high school by teaching journalistic writing for publication in high school papers, or in high school department in community newspapers, such as have been installed in a score of Minnesota newspapers.

Y. M. C. A. CLUB CHIEFS PREPARE FOR MEETING

Club leadrs of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. district today made preparations to attend their monthly dinner to be held at the junior high school tonight at 6 o'clock. J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, will be the speaker. Following the dinner and his discourse there will be an open forum in which will be discussed problems of boy life.

According to T. P. McKee, community secretary, the following are expected to be present:

Walter Thomison, C. C. Beatty, James Anderson, Glenn Tidball, William Adamson, Martin Warren, James Hughes, L. R. McMullen, C. M. Metzgar, Ray Atkinson, Eugene Griset, Robert Lenhardt, Kenneth Morrison, E. D. Hummel, Paul Spring, of Garden Grove, and Coach Murray of Tustin.

LONELY WOMEN OFFER SELVES AS BRIDES

The hearts of lonely, unmarried folk continue to reach out for each other today, through the office of County Clerk J. M. ("Cupid") Backs.

Publication of a letter, minus the name of the Huntington Beach oil worker who signed it, resulted in two additional women responding to his inquiry for a wife.

"I am answering the matrimonial plea of the Huntington Beach man," wrote "Miss I. B. C.," Santa Ana. "I am in a notion for a husband if the right one can be found."

Then she described this husband—her ideal.

"He must be not too old, and not too broke," she declared, adding:

"He must not be over 45. He must have a home and a FEW thousand dollars."

Describing herself, Miss I. B. C. said that she was a retired business woman, just past 30.

"My husband must be a hunter, interested in fishing and all out-of-door sports," she concluded.

The other letter was also from a Santa Ana woman. She is "well within the age limit, she said," and may possess the other attributes which the lonely man specified.

That there might be no mistake as to the man with whom she desired to correspond with, she enclosed a newspaper clipping, telling of the Huntington Beach man's plea.

Backs announced that all names would be deemed strictly confidential, and in order to maintain the secrecy and his reputation as a deputy Dan Cupid, asked that those interested address all letters to him, to be forwarded to the addressees.

CLUB PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY SANTA ANAN

(BY MISS ISABEL ANDERSON)

Eleanor Young Elliott, of Santa Ana, added to her many appreciative friends the members of the Orange Woman's club when she presented a program before it Tuesday afternoon.

The charm of her personality and her really professional handling of her numbers made Mrs. Elliott's program of monologues an unusually delightful one.

The ability to lose oneself in a sympathetic interpretation of varied numbers is possessed by Mrs. Elliott to an unusual degree. Her program was full of cleverly given numbers in which the reader completely submerged her own personality in the characters of some of the most difficult selection.

The fact that Mrs. Elliott reads many of her own compositions adds greatly to the color and interest of her program. The appeal of her own stories and poems, which she reads so well is felt by all who hear her,

Mrs. Elliott's vivacity, her ease on the stage and her attractive voice and manner win for her the warmest appreciation of her audiences and the most pleasant comments from the members of the Woman's club followed her program.

"A There With Variations," comedy of married life, by Mary Stewart Cutting; "A Ribbon for the Fiesta," original, bit of pathos of Mexican border life; "The Nightingale and the Rose", allegory by Oscar Wilde, full of poetical imagery but cynical; "Betty at the Ball Game", frothy; "The Way it Was," original monologue; child impersonations by Edmund Vance Cooke and Albert Bigelow Paine; "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," little mis-adventure in love by Marjorie Benton Cooke—these made up Mrs. Elliott's delightful program.

William Jennings Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk

Jesus never dealt with trivial things; whatever He touched upon was worthy of consideration.

In the course of His teachings He covered all of the truths that are fundamental. His language was always direct and His illustrations always apt. No one has ever equaled Him in clearness of expression or force in argument.

Some may find fault with Christ's disregard of social amenities; those whom he rebuked might even accuse him of impoliteness, but disregard of some social forms is a virtue rather than a fault.

There are those today who put form above substance and subordinate truth to felicity of expression. St. Augustine, in his confessions, charged that in his time some were watchful lest by an error of the tongue one should murder the word "human being" but took no heed lest through the fury of his spirit, he should murder the real human being.

We have such at the present time—persons who are more shocked at the misspelling of the word than at the gravest misdeeds, and others who will tolerate a crack in the brain more readily than a failure to crease the trousers.

A Great Virtue.

Christ spake a parable to those who were with him, guests at meat at the house of one of the chiefs of the Pharisees on a Sabbath day. Noticing how they chose out the chief rooms, or seats, He said:

"When thou are bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honorable man than thou be bidden of him.

"And he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, 'Give this man place;' and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room.

"But when thou are bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee. 'Friend, go up higher;' then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee.

"For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

The reasoning is conclusive and the thought expressed is far reaching. Pride is a grievous sin and is always offensive even when it escapes punishment. Humility is one of the greatest of the virtues and is singled out for commendation and praise in the Old Testament as well as in the New.

The Key to Wisdom.

"Before honor is humility" appears twice in Proverbs. In another place Solomon tells us that "by humility and the fear of the Lord are riches and honor and life." Christ gives to the meek the promise that they shall inherit the earth.

Lack of humility is a sin; without humility the larger virtues are impossible. Humility is necessary to instruction; it opens the door to wisdom, while pride closes both the heart and the mind to information. Pride disgusts and rebuffs those who seek to aid.

Even when one is humble in regard to that which concerns himself, he is often proud of that which he possesses in conjunction with others.

National pride, while valuable, may be carried so far as to prevent the imitation of that which is good in other nations and the making of needed improvements in our own laws and customs. Nations as well as individuals can learn from each other, and, even when they teach, humility gives weight to what they say and do.

The Ideal Feast.

After Christ had rebuked the guests who had immodestly striven for the chief seats at the table, He turned his attention to the host and outlined to him the plan that should be followed in the spreading of a feast.

The Sabbath meal was often an elaborate one and the one of which Christ was partaking was probably one of that kind. We may suppose that it was not unlike the dinners of today that are intended to emphasize the social standing of the host, and given with the idea that the elaborate hospitality extended will be returned in kind. It was this exchange of favors that Christ rebuked.

"When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbors." Why?

"Lest they also bid thee again, and a r compense be made thee.

"But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind; and thou shalt be blessed." Why? "For they cannot recompense thee."

The Matter of Reward.

Then follows the promise of a reward higher and more enduring, which some have seized upon for purposes of criticism. "For thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just."

Some claim to entertain such a sublimated view of life that they insist that all good should be done without thought of reward. The Bible deals with man as he is, and man as he is needs the stimulus of rewards as well as the fear of punishment.

In teaching humility, as set forth in this lesson, the Master held out the fear of humiliation to warn those who sought the chief seats at the table and He pointed out the pleasure which those feel who are invited to come up higher.

The Beautitudes specifically set forth the blessedness that shall come to those who are pure in heart, who promote peace and who suffer for righteousness' sake.

But the emphasis in this part of the lesson should be laid upon Christ's consideration for the poor and unfortunate. His heart was with the masses: "The common people heard him gladly." He gave as a proof of his Messiahship that "the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them."

The Church's Great Menace.

There is need of such a lesson at this time. The gulf between the rich and the poor—the lack of sympathy between those two elements of society—is one of the greatest menaces to the church as well as to material progress. The class consciousness manifested in both of these groups defies even religion. Nothing but Christ's gospel can solve the problem.

There are some who would convert the church into a literary society, a sort of college club, and require a diploma be attached to each application for membership. Fishermen, even a young carpenter, might not be able to qualify.

"No thinking man," we are told, can accept this Bible doctrine or believe in that Bible passage. We are asked to purge the word of God of all the truths that conflict with guesses and hypotheses advanced in the name of science, even though these guesses and hypotheses are unsupported by facts.

There is an organized effort—it is even found in some Sunday School literature — to eliminate fundamental parts of the revealed will of God on the ground that their retention will alienate "the intellectuals."

Christ Died For All.

One preacher has suggested that we should make the interpretation of the Bible and the church program acceptable to those who come out of our colleges.

The church is surely in need of trained minds, consecrated to God's service; it yearns for the young men and young women who have, by intellectual development, increased their capacity for service. But the remedy is not to be found in segregation, or in bringing the Bible down to the level of the critic.

All souls are alike to the Heavenly Father, as all souls were alike to Christ. His disciples were not chosen by any literary tests; they were judged by their hearts. He would have been as quick to reject an educational qualification as He was to reject a dollar rating.

But a small fraction of the boys and girls of the United States ever enter a college or a university—and Christ died for the uneducated as well as for the educated, for the poor as well as for the rich! His church can be no respecter of persons, and the suggestion of a classification based upon educational advantages is as repugnant as a classification based upon the size of the purse or the amount of the bank account.

The Basis of Peace.

Brotherhood is the basis of peace in the church, peace in society, peace in industry and peace between nations, and brotherhood must include all whose hearts accept and whose lives exemplify Christ's teachings.

When Confucius was asked whether there was any word that would apply to all relations between man and man, he answered: "Is not reciprocity such a word?" Reciprocity is a calculating selfishness; the very sin that Christ rebuked at the Pharisee's house.

Love is the key word of Christianity; love teaches us to do good according to the needs of those whom we aid, not according to their ability to return favors.

This is the spirit which Christ endeavored to inculcate. This is the spirit that the world needs, never more than now. This is the only spirit that can make a church a Christian organization.

Stately New Home Resounds to Chime of Silver Wedding Bells

The beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Crookshank, on Lemon Heights, was thrown open to a large company of their friends last night, the delightful affair being not only a housewarming, but also the celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Angus J. Crookshank.

The new home, one of the most beautiful and stately in Orange county, crowns one of the hills in the celebrated Lemon Heights district, and commands a view of the Santa Ana valley with its surrounding hills and farther away mountains, with the blue Pacific and Catalina island toward the south—a view that is probably unrivalled by any homesite in the county.

Last night a silver moon flooded the surrounding country with its beauty, and the spacious rooms of the house were aglow with lights and with a warmth of hospitality that made the affair an especially happy one.

The fact that this was a silver-wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Angus Crookshank had been closely guarded, and not until Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh's beautiful voice began the favored bridal song, "O Promise Me," did the rumor become whispered about. With Alan Revill at the piano, Mrs. Slabaugh followed this by "Because," at the close of which Mr. Revill began the Lohengrin wedding march and the bridal procession descended the stairs.

Dainty Miss Eleanor Crookshank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crookshank, came first with a basket of flowers, followed by little Miss Marion Crookshank, the winsome young daughter of the "bride" and "groom," who bore upon a pillow the "ring"—a silver bracelet.

The Misses Constance and Josephine Crookshank officiated as bridesmaids for their mother, who followed them upon the arm of her son, Miles. They were met by the "groom," who was attended by his nephew, Ronald Crookshank, and a wholly delighted service, in which reverence and a gentle humor were perfectly blended, was read by their pastor, the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, of the First Congregational church.

In a silver-gray gown of lace and satin, with a veil of the same misty gray lace upon her head, Mrs. Crookshank was a very lovely picture, and the congratulations showered upon her and her bridegroom of twenty-five years were warm with the love and the friendliness which surrounds them in their family and among all who know them.

After the wedding a doorway in one end of the living room was arranged in form of a book, with "Album" in big silver letters across the cover, and in this frame were presented, one by one, the members of a little dancing club, of which Mr. and Mrs. Angus Crookshank were the founders a year or two ago, and each "portrait" was introduced and described by one of their number, Mrs. Terry Stephenson, amid much merriment from the audience.

Two clever dances by Miss Gladys Walker, of Los Angeles, were followed by a group of readings by Mrs. Herbert True, also of Los Angeles. A mirth-provoking rendition of "Romeo and Juliet" was given with petite Miss Virginia Thatcher as Romeo, and tall young Mr. Schuyler Bigelow as Juliet.

Led by Mr. and Mrs. Angus Crookshank, the entire company of guests then formed for a grand march, which led out of doors and became a moonlight stroll around the wide verandas. Following this came a happy hour over the refreshment tables, and then the rooms were cleared for dancing, and to the strains of Chapman's orchestra the rest of the evening hours flew merrily by.

Mr. and Mrs. Crookshank were assisted in entertaining their guests by their son and daughter, Ronald and Eleanor; by Mr. and Mrs. Angus Crookshank and their family—Miles, Constance, Josephine and Marion—by Mrs. White and Miss Shirley White, mother and sister of Mrs. Angus Crookshank; by Mrs. Clarence Crookshank's mother, Mrs. Brown, and by Miss Lida Crookshank and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Crookshank.

Many out-of-town guests were present to share the pleasures of the house-warming, which opened so brilliantly the New Year's social festivities.

Well-Loved Pastor Is Honored Guest at Surprise Dinner

Honoring the Rev. J. G. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy who are leaving Santa Ana in the near future, wives of the members of the Session of the United Presbyterian church entertained last night with a bounteous chicken dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Eisele of Santiago street. The affair was planned as a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, who had been invited to dinner with the hosts, little expecting that their fellow workers in the church were to be assembled there upon their arrival.

A long table was laid in the dining room, and places were marked for the invited guests with dainty cards bearing the photographs of the honorees. A beautiful bouquet of flaming camellias, the gift of Mrs. J. M. Millen, who was detained at home on account of illness, graced the center of the table.

Pleasant conversation reminiscent of the happy nine years' association of pastor and people in the local church, caused the hours to fly happily. At the conclusion of the dinner, the men held a short meeting to discuss work of the church, following which the entire group enjoyed the remainder of the evening in conversation.

Assisting Mrs. Eisele in serving the dinner, were her sister, Miss Lena Blackwood and Miss Myra Gibson.

Those invited to honor the Rev. Mr. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, in addition to the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Eisele, were Messrs. and Mesdames W. W. Hoy, John A. Henderson jr., W. B. Gibson, J. A. Porter, C. G. Ramsey, A. H. Morrow, J. G. Thompson, J. M. Millen, William Breckenridge, and H. G. Allen and sister, Mrs. Noble.

Drama-Short Story

Meeting yesterday with Mrs. Kensill Brown and Mrs. John Estes jr., at the home of the former, members of the drama section of Ebell society enjoyed an excellent presentatoin of Galsworthy's play, "The Pigeon" given by Mrs. Charles D. Brown.

Typically English in theme and construction, the lines of the play were given full value by the sympathetic rendition of Mrs. Brown and the discussion which followed was joined in by all the members present who included Miss Prudence Macomber, leader, Mrs. Frothingham, Mrs. Florence Hawkinson, Mrs. F. P. Nickey, Mrs. Charles D. Brown, Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. Hugh Smith, Mrs. M. E. Smith, Mrs. Fred Cole and the hostesses, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Estes.

Junior College Sophs Pleasantly Feted At Unique Party

Originality was the keynote of one of the happiest affairs of the Junior college year when the freshmen class last night entertained the sophomores at a dancing party in the school gymnasium.

Highly original was the treatment of the great room which was converted from a regulation gym into a charming, tropical scene; original too were the special dances with their unique favors. In the decorative scheme, tennis nets used to drape the bare boards, were filled with ferns, greenery and flaring crepe paper posies in the class colors of purple and white, giving the effect of a wisteria draped garden. Tall palms disguised the basket ball standards and the purple flowers blossomed in every unexpected place.

With the Lester Schroeder orchestra furnishing a pleasing program of dance music, a number of cotillion figures were introduced with clever favors prepared by Miss Wilma Plavan and Miss Persana Deimling, vice president and social chairman respectively, and to whose unflagging efforts the success of the affair was due.

The supper dance was distinguished by the cleverly contrived paper hats which were matched for partners who then enjoyed together the lavender and white iced cake and the ice cream with its lavender bars emphasizing the closs color scheme.

Mrs. Elmer Worthy gave several entertaining readings which added to the pleasure of the program.

Faculty guests present included Dean D. K. Hammond and Mrs. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Worthy, the Misses Mabel Whiting, Mary Harris, Margaret Baker, Marguerite Tedford, Isabel Anderson, and Mrs. Thatcher. Many former Junior College students were present to enjoy the affair also, and included among others, the Misses Berthena Selway, Lucinda Griffith, Mabel Hulberg, Edith Knox, Adele Johnson and Frances Egge and the Messrs. Chester Stafford, Nelson Griffith, Robert Gerwing, Rudolph Richards and Leslie Harding.

Young Ladies Sodality

One of the pleasantest affairs of the winter in the Young Ladies' Sodality was the party held at the K. C. hall recently when cards and dancing filled the evening hours.

Fifteen tables were employed for the session of 500 and following the bestowal of pretty prizes to the winners, dancing was the feature of the evening with the Misses Eva Simonsma, Edna Wurster and Jeanette Bowser alternating at the piano.

At 10 o'clock the hostess committee served refreshments of hot chocolate and cake.

Returns from Visit

After a three months' visit in Kanssa and Iowa, Mrs. O. B. Alderman is once again at her home, 202 East First street, fully convinced that California is truly the Golden State in every respect.

In Iowa Mrs. Alderman visited her brother, Gardner Price of Nevada, Iowa, the Alderhome for many years. Leaving there, the Santa Aa dweller took her departure in a snowstorm so heavy that it was impossible to see across the streets. During her stay she encountered very cold weather generally, with the thermometer ranging from 4 to 20 degrees below zero. "Is it any wonder California appeals?" Mrs. Alderman asks.

With Mrs. Edmund Snow occupying the president's chair, the Junior High school P.-T. A. held a most interesting session Thursday afternoon when "Companionship of Teachers, Mothers and Children" was the theme of the program.

Speaking on the topic were Mrs. N. A. Beals, Mrs. Sallie Powell, Mrs. W. W. Hoy and Mrs. M. B. Youel. Each gave a most interesting survey of the subject and the final summing up of the question indicated that every child needed a proper mingling of adult and childish companionship; that sarcasm was eminently harmful and should be used only in extreme cases as a possible punishment; that absolute confidence was necessary between children and parents or teachers; that truth should always rule and truthfulness and frankness be met with the same qualities; that sympathy and understanding love were essentials in teaching; that children might be allowed to follow their own inclinations to a certain extent in their leisure time but that they should have a certain number of home duties, although not enough to interfere with school work.

Following the interchange of ideas, the parents and teachers present enjoyed a pleasant social hour during which acquaintance and friendship flourished.

University Study

Miss Mabel McFadden, 906 North Main street, will entertain the Santa Ana section of the University Study club Tuesday, January 9 at 2:30 p. m. when the regular study hour will be spent in a discussion of the second volume of Thompson's "Outline of Science" presented by Miss McFadden and Miss Blanche Collings.

New Years Birthday Celebrated By Gay Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stafford on Walnut Way, Tustin, was the scene of a gay party Thursday afternoon, honoring their young daughter Evelyn's birthday, which fell on New Year's day.

The house was decorated with green and red crepe paper streamers, all drawn to the center of the rooms and ending in a shower of large bells.

The children enjoyed various games and after admiring the lovely presents they gathered around a table well filled with goodies and graced with a birthday cake, lighted with nine candles.

Those who helped Evelyn to celebrate the anniversary were Dorothy and Marjorie Penman, Charlotte Vance, Ruth Weise, Beth Collar, Madaline Ryan, Mabel Landis, Alice Prather, Zelpha Bacon, Cleo Steaman, Thelma Jackson, Genevieve Eustis, Blanche Horton, Bonnie Kiser, Earl Horton and Glen Stafford.

Interesting Tourists

Among the post-holidya guests in the city are Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Welborn of Princeton, Indiana, with their daughter, Miss Mary Katherine Welborn, a student at Berkeley, who are guests of Mrs. J. C. Galloway, 1001½ North Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Welborn are touring the southwest and upon the arrival of the mid-winter recess at Berkeley, their daughter joined them at the Grand Canyon and is enjoying her vacation with them. Miss Welborn, a graduate of Vassar College, is taking post-graduate work at Berkeley in mediaeval history.

Interesting Studio

With the passing of the holidays and their flurry and excitement to the exclusion of all other matters, minds once more turn to the more strictly social pleasures such as dancing and kindred amusements.

Along such a line, Santa Anans will be interested in the studio of dancing and expression recently opened in the Greenleaf building by Mrs. Jules Hilton.

Mrs. Hilton does not conduct dancing classes in the general sense of the word, since she feels that students progress much more satisfactorily when they receive individual instruction. So her pupils are received in that way and range from the wee lass whose mother wishes her to acquire in childhood the grace which dancing alone can give, to the grownups whose mothers were not so thoughtful and who find themselves in dire straits without a knowledge of social dancing.

Arrangements for instruction may be made by calling Phone 1909.

Veteran Rebekah

Mrs. George E. Peters, 110 West First street, president of the Veteran Rebekah association, entertained the organization very delightfully yesterday afternoon at a meeting which combined business and pleasure most acceptably.

Two applications for membership were accepted and plans for an all-day meeting to be held in February, were made. This meeting, to which husbands are invited for luncheon, will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall and promises many interesting features.

During the social hour which followed the business session, Mrs. Peters served cake and hot coffee to her guests who were twenty-five in number.

Daughters of Veterans

Members of two leading patriotic organizations of the city, the Sons and Daughters of Veterans, are eagerly awaiting Monday night, January 8, when they will hold joint installation of officers at the G. A. R. hall.

Mrs. Margaret Stoner of Sawtelle department president, with her staff will act for the Daughters while the officers of the Sons will be installed by the department commander of that organization. The ceremonies will be semi-public as friends of the two societies have been asked to be present. A brief musical program will also be a feature of the evening.

Shiloh Circle

Owing to unforseen circumstances, Orange Legion hall will not be available for the joint installation ceremonies of Orange and Santa Ana Shiloh Circle Officers announced for Tuesday, January 9.

In view of the disappointment, the meeting has been postponed until the following Thursday, January 11 and on that date the ceremonial will be held at the local G. A. R. hall with a practise meeting in the forenoon hours, a pot-luck dinner at noon and the important session in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Alison Thompson of Santa Monica will be present and will act as installing officer.

Big Turkey Dinner Shows Good Will Of Employers

Barr Lumber company employes in company with their wives and sweethearts are still dwelling with pleasurable recollection upon the pleasant manner in which the coming of the new year was celebrated by the company.

This was in the form of an elaborate turkey dinner served at James's gold room with 100 guests from this vicinity and 56 from Whittier and Norwalk yards.

Good cheer and friendliness were the outstanding features of the evening aside from the delicious feast itself. O. H. Barr acted as genial host, while C. C. Barr, of Whittier, wore the proud distinction of being the only formal speaker of the evening, as the additions to the program by a few others were entirely extemporaneous in their nature. These consisted of various stunts and were participated in by numerous employes and their wives.

"Billy" Whitney, employe of the Santa Ana mill for the last thirty-six years either by the present owners or their predecessors, the Griffith Lumber company, started the ball rolling. Considerable good natured rivalry was created between the Santa Ana and Whittier crowds, each presenting take-offs on the other crowd. Maurice Phillips, of the C. H. Chapman Lumber company, as an expression of good will from a competing concern, contributed several of his best vocal solos which, it is needless to say, were much appreciated.

The Barr Lumber company realizes that its success depends largely upon its organization and employes generally, and has for many years past made it a practice to distribute at Christmas time additional compensation to all employes in proportion to the success of the business. Checks aggregating a little more than $5000 were distributed to 100 employes just preceding the holidays.

Household Economics

Members of the second section Household Economics of Ebell society are anticipating a pleasant 1 o'clock luncheon upon the occasion of their meeting January 10 with Mrs. Roy Russell, 2014 North Broadway.

Associated with Mrs. Russell as hostesses will be Mrs. Fred Rowland and Mrs. M. A. Patton. "Santa Ana Industries" will be the theme of the afternoon program.

EIGHT CLUBS RENEW BATTLE TOMORROW FOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF HARBOR LEAGUE

League Standing.

El Modena	5	0	1.000
Irvine	5	1	.833
El Toro	3	3	.500
Tustin K. P.	2	2	.500
S. A. Legion	1	3	.250
Van Dien-Youngs	1	3	.250
Newport	0	4	.000
Garden Grove	0	1	.000

Games Tomorrow.

Van Dien-Young Co., at Irvine.
El Modena at Tustin.
Newport at El Toro.
Garden Grove at S. A. Legion.

With the prospect of perfect baseball weather the eight clubs in the Orange County Harbor league today were prepared to renew their fight tomorrow for the championship of the circuit and for the coveted trophy to be awarded by the A. G. Spalding company.

The tilts tomorrow will be the first played on the regular league schedule since December 17, when the teams called things off until after the Christmas holidays.

Blaeholder May Pitch.

"Jug" Walters will lead his cohorts from Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion, against Harry Blaeholder's fast Garden Grove organization at the Legion grounds, corner West Fifth street and Sullivan avenue. The conflict will begin at 2:30 o'clock. Harry Blaeholder, Salt Lake heaver, may decide to do his stuff against the ex-service players, but it is probable that he will move to first base and allow his brother to throw them across. Archie Snodgras, Jack Cardall or "Flash" Raney will work for the post outfit.

The undefeated El Modena aggregation will face one of its hardest games when it lines up against the Tustin Knights of Pythias at the latter location. George Blaeholder, when right, is just about the best twirler in the circuit and he has a gang of heavy swatsmiths behind him. "Bib" Bracamontes, star El Modena mound artist, has a world of speed and has yet to lose a league game.

Irvine After Victory.

"Dutch" Heinricks will endeavor to fling the Irvine club to another victory over the Van Dien-Young company nine. Vic McKinzie probably will be sent in to try to prevent the U. S. C. star from getting away with it. This should be one of the feature frays of the afternoon. The teams clash at Irvine.

Charlie Way will pack his Newport men into machines and move to El Toro in an effort to break into the "won" column. The beach crew has had its share of tough breaks this season and the men figure they are due to get started tomorrow. El Toro still has a great chance to cop first honors in the league and it will take a tough fight to down the bean town men. They are on their toes all the time and have been getting some real pitching lately.

HERE ARE CHAMPS IN WORLD OF SPORT

To the left we have with us Rogers Hornsby, star second sacker of the St. Louis Cardinals who led the National league in about everything but knitting last season. The good-looking youngster on the right is none other than Gene Sarazen, golf champion, who is now playing in the California open tourney, at San Francisco.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

COPYRIGHT BY NEA SERVICE

NO. 4: THE MOST UNIQUE PLAY I EVER SAW

The late Herman Schaefer had a keen sense of humor.

While Schaefer was always regarded as one of the comedians of the ball field, few players possessed keener intellect.

In other words, Schaefer was a brainy ball player. Better than the average mechanically, Schaefer was equally valuable because he played with his head.

To Schaefer goes the credit of bringing about the most unique play I have ever seen in the majors. It caused the rules to be changed.

Schaefer, at the time, was a member of the Washington club. The Chicago club was the opposing team, and the game was staged at Washington.

It was late in the game, Washington needed a run to tie, Milan was on third base and Schaefer on first. The Washington club had used up most of its reserve strength, and while the batsman was a rather weak hitter, it was decided to keep him in the lineup.

On the second ball pitched Schaefer stole second base. He had hoped to draw a throw, that might enable Milan to make a dash for home. After Schaefer reached second, the pitcher delivered two more balls to to the batsman, making the count two balls and two strikes.

On the next pitch, to the consternation of everybody and the great confusion of the Chicago club, Schaefer ran back to first base at full speed. Then things began to happen.

The Chicago catcher threw the ball to second base, and the fielder stepped on the bag, but the umpire made no decision.

The ball was then thrown to the first baseman. Immediately Schaefer started for second. The first baseman touched the bag, but still the umpire gave no ruling.

The ball was then thrown to second, only to have Schaefer start back to first. The second baseman quickly threw the ball to the first baseman and Schaefer was caught between the bases. A run-up ensued.

In the meantime Milan had been waiting his chance. While Schaefer was being run down between first and second, Milan tried to score, but was retired at the plate on a close decision.

The play started all kinds of argument. Schaefer had run the bases in reverse order, yet the rules failed to specifically cover his act.

Now the rules say, that when a player so runs, all that is necessary to retire him is to hold the ball on the base he vacated, or touch him with the ball while not on such base.

LOOS LEADS IN PLAY FOR CAL. GOLF TITLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—Eddie Loos of Los Angeles entered the final round of the California open golf championship today with the best score to his credit in the opening round. He turned in 147 for his yesterday morning and afternoon's total.

Other cards in order were: Walter Hagen, New York, 149; McDonald Smith, San Francisco 150; Joe Kirkwood, Australia, 152; Hutt Martin, Los Angeles, 153; Gene Sarazen, New York, 154; Jock Tutchison, Chicago, 154.

FULLERTON DEFEATS POLY, 46 TO 14, IN OPENING BASKETBALL TILT OF SEASON

Lack of Practice Too Great a Handicap for Morrison's Aggregation In Fracas A t North County City; Whittier Poets Humble Anaheim Quintet

LEAGUE STANDING

Fullerton	1	0	1.000
Whittier	1	0	1.000
Santa Ana	0	1	.000
Anaheim	0	1	.000
Orange	0	0	.000

Yesterday's Results

Fullerton 46, Santa Ana 14.
Whittier 24, Anaheim 18.
Orange, bye.

Four nights of practice and a team of inexperienced men against a quintet of veterans who have had two weeks of drill proved too much of a handicap for "Spud" Morrison's Santa Ana high school basketball team in the opening Orange league fracas at Fullerton yesterday afternoon.

Glenn Lewis's team was altogether too strong, both in defense and offense, for the local men, and Fullerton won without much difficulty by the score of 46 to 14. The work of Shipkey and Carpenter, Fullerton guards, was so good that Santa Ana was unable to throw a single field goal in the first half.

Coach Morrison used about every man on his first string squad and Lewis sent in a bunch of substitutes that kept the score book men busy.

Eddie Linsenbard, center, played the best game for the local men. He shot a couple of baskets at the first of the second half and was always worrying the Fullerton offense. Bowe, Luck and Wurster all played well.

Arroues and Hezmalhalch were high point men for Fullerton, the former making fifteen digits and the latter fourteen. Shipkey tossed in three baskets on long shots.

Santa Ana found difficulty in getting the ball close to the basket, and when it did, the lack of practice showed plainly.

The teams lined up as follows:

Santa Ana (14)	Pos.	(46) Ful.
Bowe (1)	F	(14) Hezmalhalch
Luck (6)	F	(15) Arroues
Lacy	C	(2) Kraemer
Howell	G	Carpentier
Middlebrook	G	(6) Shipkey

Substitutions — Santa Ana, Linsenbard (5) for Lacy, Natland for Bowe, Cook for Luck, Stroscheim for Linsenbard, Spencer for Howell, Golden for Middlebrook, Wurster (2) for Golden, Golden for Natland, Norman for Wurster, Sheets for Spencer, McClain for Sheets.

Fullerton — Hill (8) for Hezmalhalch, Weaks (1) for Arroues, Gregory for Kraemer, Lemke for Carpenter, Oswald for Shipkey.

Referee—Ray Walker (Huntington Beach high school).

QUAKERS POUNCE ON TWO MOTHER COLONY TEAMS

The Whittier high school basketball team won its opening game of the Orange league by defeating Anaheim, 24 to 18, in a fast game at Whittier last night. At half the score stood 12 to 10 in favor of Whittier.

Early in the second period the Poets increased their lead and held it until the final whistle. The feature of the game was the shooting of Barmore of the winners and the splendid floor work of Newkirk, Anaheim guard.

The score:

Whittier.		Anaheim.
Marmore (8)	F	(8) Tohlman
Moffit (6)	F	(2) Ross
Whiteside (4)	C	Wallace
Landreth (2)	G	(8) Newkirk
Partridge	G	Janss

Whittier substitutes — Bigbee (2) for Barmore, Horton (2) for Whiteside.

Anaheim substitutes — Hile for Newkirk.

Officials — Douglas, referee; Denny, umpire.

The Whittier 110-pound team defeated the Anaheim lightweights in the first game by the score of 17 to 8. The young Poets stepped out in front at the first whistle and held the lead all the way.

The lineup:

Whittier (17)		Anaheim (8)
Weaver (12)	F	(7) Kiler
Tyler	F	Schweinsest
Peelle	C	(1) Utter
Ringsland	G	Fitzgibbon
Johnson	G	Alfip

Anaheim substitutions—Graston for Schwensest.

TUSTIN NABS COURT TILT FROM GROVERS

Earl Murray's Tustin high school basketball quintet mowed down the scrappy Garden Grove aggregation in a practice fracas at the latter city yesterday afternoon. The final count was 36 to 23.

Foster Prather, crack Tustin forward, was the individual star of the engagement, his all-around work being sensational. He accounted for twenty-four points of the Tustin total. Jack Dungan and Francis Russell excelled for Garden Grove.

The lineups:

Tustin	Pos.	Garden Grove
Fink (6)	F	(2) Mussel
Prather (24)	F	(5) Russell
Miller (2)	C	(6) Ward
Jiminez (4)	G	Bragg

Substitutions—Tustin: Rust for Fink, Dourty for Miller, Crawford for Kelly and Tatum for Crawford; Garden Grove: Morrell (4) for Mussel, Parks for Bragg, Collins for Parks and Walker for Collins.

TILDEN PLAYS WELL DESPITE INJURIES

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion, still looks like the king of the courts, despite a loss of part of his "stroke" finger.

Tilden was the same dazzling, accurate veteran in his match here last night with Francis Hunter, holder of the indoor championship, which marked the opening of the 1923 tennis season. Tilden won 3-6, 7-5, 6-4.

It was the first public match in which Tilden has appeared since the operation when he lost a portion of the middle finger of his stroke hand. His followers, were more than satisfied.

His come back was perfect and against one of the strongest men on the indoor courts in the country. Tilden had everything, his service was like a shot, his volleying, both fore and back hand was perfect; his skill at the net and his placement shots could not have been better.

The champion even went so far as to spring his old trick of turning his back and dropping his racquet, recovering it in time to make a perfect return.

Hunter was also at top form and his game fight against the champion earned him the plaudits of the galleries. He gave Tilden a strenuous workout.

JUNIOR HIGH COURT PLAYERS WIN, LOSE

Local Eighth Graders Hand Orange 20 to 1 Defeat; Ninth Grade Spanked

Two Santa Ana Junior high school basketball teams got a fifty-fifty, even-stephen break out of their tilts here yesterday afternoon with quintets from Orange.

The local eighth graders trimmed the neighboring community's representatives of that division, 20 to 1, in a lop-sided affair that was never in doubt.

The Orange ninth grade team reversed matters and managed to slip over a 20 to 17 victory after a hard fought tussle. In both games only three periods were played.

Nelson and Smith were the whole show for Santa Ana in the eighth grade melee, while Nava and Parks displayed plenty of talent in the ninth grade brawl. The ninth graders clash with the Poly 130-pound team next Monday afternoon and with Orange again the following day.

The Santa Ana teams played as follows: Ninth Grade—Meisinger, Borland, White (2), Ballou (2), forwards; Parks (4), Dawson (2), centers; Hurd (2), Neva (5), Mercado and Planchon, guards.

Eighth Grade—Nelson (9), Smith (9), forwards; Gates, center; Pangle (2), Miller and Harvey, guards.

THREE H. B. CASABA TEAMS VICTORIOUS

(Special to The Register)

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—The Huntington Beach high school firsts, and the 130 and 110-pound basketball teams were victorious in their initial clashes of the season at Compton yesterday afternoon.

The firsts won, 17 to 16, after a desperate fight in which both sides played hard, clean basketball. The lightweights copped the palm by the score of 19 to 13, while the 110-pounders annexed a close fray, 31 to 28.

The Huntington Beach first team has the following men who look promising for regular berths this season: Hoxsie, Terry, Seltzer and Sullivan, forwards; Nichols, center, and Nash, Elliott, Casad and Walling, guards.

The locals meet Tustin here next Friday afternoon in the first league contest for either team.

GARDEN GROVE GIRLS MEET H. B. THURSDAY

Mrs. Hamilton was tired!

Since breakfast, she had washed the dishes, made the beds, cleaned the house, scrubbed the kitchen floor and washed the baby's clothes.

Tired and "blue," Mrs. Hamilton glanced out of the window.

Across the street a sign in the drug store window attracted her attention. "Ko-Fan Buoys You Up," it said.

The suggestion appealed to her.

Now every day about 11 o'clock and again at 3, a glass of Ko-Fan at the corner fountain refreshes and cheers her.

Stocks, Markets and Financial News

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

Heavy Selling of Industrial Stocks at Foreign Situation Uncertain

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—Uncertainty over the foreign situation received considerable credit for the heavy selling in industrials which took place today. But sterling maintained a phlegmatic attitude concerning developments in the reparations problem. Hence there was substantial basis for taking the view that the reaction in stocks was due to technical causes rather than to any apprehension over the European outlook.

Stocks like American Can, Studebaker, Baldwin, Pan-American, U. S. Steel Common and other favorites on the recent advance bore the brunt of the selling. This fact gave color to the opinion that the market was passing through a period of correction without relation to happenings abroad.

Industrial leaders exhibit a robust turn over the last few weeks and it was only natural that traders should look to their profits in these stocks.

Important financial interests have no doubt that a workable solution of Germany's financial difficulties will be found in the next sixty days. Meanwhile the principal concern of the stock market is its own internal position.

The market closed lower.

ARTICHOKE MARKET IS WEAKER IN S. F.

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—Artichokes and brussels sprouts are showing a decided weakness today. Supplies are rather heavy and demand is slower just at this time. Prices on artichokes range from $16 to $19 per crate of 14 to 16 dozen each, while sprouts are selling from 4 to 6 cents per pound, depending on quality.

The lettuce market is easier in the face of increased supplies. Crates of Imperial Valley lettuce containing 3½ dozen heads sold from $2.75 to $3 each, while smaller heads were selling at $2.65 per crate.

Cellar sweet potatoes are selling from 2 to 2 1-4 cents per pound, indicating an easier tone in the market.

Supplies of spinach were much heavier and sales prices averaged 3 to 4 cents per pound on fresh stock.

Approximately 3½ tons of dressed turkeys were received today and selling price ranged 2 cents per pound lower on fancy stock.

Supplies light: Pineapples, grapes, pears, cabbage, beans, summer squash, cauliflower, rhubarb, cucumbers, tomatoes.

Supplies liberal: Bananas, apples, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, potatoes, celery, onions, spinach, lettuce, bell peppers, egg plant, peas.

HUNTINGTON BEACH

According to the books of Building Inspector Louis F. Gates there were 434 building permits issued in 1922 as against 538 in 1921, but some very interesting facts are shown.

In 1921 there were only 120 homes built, costing more than $900, while in 1922 there were 143 built.

Bungalets and tent houses built in 1921 were 145, while in 1922 there were only 86.

Garages built in 1921 were 85 and in 1922 there were 74 built. The cost of building homes in 1922 was greater than in 1921, as much better homes were built.

Total amount of money spent in 1921 for buildings of all kinds was $825,383, and for 1922 it was $774,295. In 1921 there were 60 derricks built within the city limits, while in 1922 there were but 43, thus making the difference of $15,613 more spent for homes than in 1921.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church held a very interesting sewing hour Wednesday. There will be another all-day meeting next Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. White had as their guests over New Years Mr. and Mrs. C. Harris and Mrs. May Maris and daughter, Lorena, from Pasadena.

The Woman's club meets Tuesday. This will be the first meeting after the holidays. Mrs. Mary Coman, of Covina, who was here last year and gave a book review, will be the speaker at this meeting. Miss Ruth Meyer, of the high school faculty, will sing several numbers. Mrs. M. G. Jones is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Keith, of Alhambra, were their guests of their son, Malcolm Keith, and family over New Years.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 6—(Office of the Fruit World)—Navel oranges never faced a more problematical winter market. Florida has five and a half million boxes of navels to go forward during the winter and spring. If climatic conditions are to continue as they have been thus far in California, the eating quality will be so improved that the demand may be doubled.

The recent rains, followed by warm sunshine, have been swelling the buds and otherwise increasing the size of the fruit. The size of the crop of navels is thereby already increased about ten per cent above former estimates. In some parts of Los Angeles the peach trees are showing occasional blooms and a greater spring-like activity has never occurred here at this season. This is fraught with grave danger. If cold rains follow with snow in the mountains, very light frosts could do greater damage than more severe freezes of by-gone days.

It is well to change the orders on the smudging program at once. A frost of twenty-eight degrees is apt to do more damage to the trees, in the present condition, than a frost of twenty-eight degrees during a cold season when the trees are hardened up instead of budding. Growers are therefore hoping for gentle rains. It is just ten years ago since the great freeze of 1913, when Southern California lost fifteen million dollars worth of navels.

Navel growers can afford to double their smudge pots in the orchard and be prepared to make the fight against frost with renewed intensity. They will gain tremendously if the frost comes, and if we escape frost the wonderful quality of the fruit thereby will provide compensation for the increased outlay.

Florida Dominating

In eastern markets Florida is the dominating factor for January and February. Florida oranges are beginning to show decay at eastern markets and the crop may have to be rushed.

Climatic conditions in Florida will gauge the size of the daily output from that state. The question of snow and blizzards in eastern markets will affect the situation from time to time. During the past week heavy snowfall affected only such points as Boston, Buffalo, etc.

Fancy California navels are bringing $4.50 to $5 per box delivered at eastern points. The high grade fruit is in demand. There is a large percentage of off grade navels in the auction offerings meeting with slow sale. Prices on the poorer fruit is correspondingly low. As a whole eastern prices show little variation over last week. That the situation is improving is evidenced more in the ability of shippers to clean up on cars that had been difficult to move.

Here's Price Range

F. O. B. quotations on Southern California navels, usual terms, are as follows: Cars running ten per cent 126s and larger, $3.50 per box; thirty to thirty-five per cent 126s and larger, $3.25; and fifty per cent 126 and larger, $3.00. Scale price ranges, $2.00 per box for 80s size; $2.50 for 100s; $3.00 for 126s, and $3.25 for smaller sizes.

Cash quotations are mostly at $2.75 per box for cars running not over ten per cent 100s, twenty per cent 126s, balance smaller. Practically no cash business is reported

The size situation will necessitate the packing of straight carloads of 126s and 150s size navels.

Growers are generally holding for 3 cents per pound for navels. Present market prices do not seem to justify a 3-cent basis to growers.

There is no speculative buying. Growers and buyers are both waiting developments.

Lemon Market

The market on California lemons is strong. There is a good demand at prevailing quotations.

F. O. B. quotations are on a basis of $4.50 to $5.75 on extra choice fruit. Choice stock 50 cents per box less.

Jobbers are paying a premium for California lemons, notwithstanding the reported splendid quality of the foreign lemons offered. The dumping of heavy quantities of foreign lemons on the market is not looked upon with favor by the trade. A steady supply of California lemons can be depended upon.

The January first estimate on lemons shows an increase of 375 carloads over the November estimate. This brings the estimated total for the 1922-23 season over 11,000 carloads.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days approximately 37,000 boxes of foreign lemons.

JEWETT DENIES PAIGE TO GO INTO AN '8'

In time-honored style, December motoring gossiping in Detroit centers largely about model changes and the corresponding unveiling ceremonies which, to the industry's inner circle, are always the most fascinating features of the National shows in January.

Prominent among big manufacturers mentioned as likely to spring a real sensation is the Paige-Detroit Motor company.

"The big sensation of the 1922 New York show was the unveiling of the Paige-built Jewett six—an elaborately staged event so impressivly managed as to be actually memorable in show annals," said D. Z. Smith, of Edgar and Hays, distributors.

"This year the Jewett will appear not as a newcomer but as one of the big production models of the past season, so popular rumor has it that the Paige interests will spring their limelight fireworks around the Paige car which, in the field of high-quality, high-powered, high-speed Sixes has been for several years one of the most popular types.

"That the new Paige offering will be an eight—or even a twelve—is one of the current rumors with which President H. M. Jewett of the Paige was recently confronted, and to which he entered prompt denial.

"Jewett says this is not the time to tell the details of Paige plans. He says any report that this car will be anything but a six is unfounded and untrue."

NOW TIME TO BUY FOR WET WEATHER

Motorists should prepare for rainy weather by securing some of the more necessary wet weather accessories, according to Elmer Preston, of Livesey's. It is the opinion of Preston that many accidents could be avoided if every car owner would equip himself or herself with chains and equipment for keeping the windshield clear.

"On these bright sunny days it is easy to put off preparing for rainy weather," said Preston. "Sooner or later rains will come. Any motorist who knows California roads, knows that they are always very slippery after the first rain storm. Tire chains are of great assistance on wet and muddy roads, and many an accident has been avoided by the use of them.

"Windshield wipers are another accessory that makes wet driving more safe. With the new wipers that work from the inside of the car, or the automatic that are self-driven, it is possible to maintain a clear line of vision of the road ahead at all times."

"This Bond Has Been All That You Said It Was."

During recent months many investors have turned in called bonds, which they purchased from us several years ago. As they bring these bonds to receive payment their common expression is, "this bond has been all you said it was." That is the basis on which we recommend bonds.

We have given the investor who buys a bond on our recommendation more than a mere acquaintanceship with that bond and that company.

We have given him the benefit of our thorough first-hand investigation. He may know that this bond has met the high standards on which we place our judgment that the investment will properly safeguard his funds.

In selecting your bonds it may be additional assurance of safety to know that they are recommended by Blyth, Witter & Co. You may wish to be one of those investors several years from now to use this same expression of satisfaction.

The next time you are in funds for investment send for our list of current offerings or call at our office for information about the bonds we recommend.

LLOYD AS DR. JACK

Spectacled Comedian Comes to West End Tomorrow In His Latest Screen Riot

"Pictures with a thought," is what Harold Lloyd is after now.

The spectacled comedian's success has been founded not alone on his ability to put over his parts, as it has been in keeping up with the trend of taste in motion pictures.

While everyone was making slapstick comedies, and the picking was good, Lloyd looked forward a couple of years and decided that the roustabout brand of fun-making —the type in which the characters wear baggy pants and sling mud prodigously —would not always have a great appeal; that is, for comedians of his calibre.

In "A Sailor Made Man" he enlarged on his own ideas of the kind of comedy the public was willing to accept from him, and his opinion was vindicated. He carried this step further in "Grandma's Boy." There were some who felt that Harold Lloyd had put too much story in this production, but audiences everywhere have given this analysis a boot.

When the plot of his latest feature comedy, "Dr. Jack," which opens a week's engagement at the West End theater tomorrow, was conceived by Hal Roach, Sam Taylor and Jean Havez, Lloyd readily fell into the spirit of it because it had a real theme. He does not believe in a story that will submerge comedy, but he demands enough to hold the interest throughout.

It would be much easier for Lloyd to make pictures that would be just funny and which would lack story value, but he prefers the more difficult road, for he feels that the results to be obtained at the end of it will be much more generally gratifying, not only to audiences but to himself.

The humaneness of "Dr. Jack" is a stroke. The comedian as the young doctor, believing only in a "sunshine treatment" is brought to the girl's house. Here he finds an eminent physician deliberately making the young woman believe she is sick in order to keep his tremendous fee forthcoming. When Lloyd as the young doctor is told that his services are not wanted, he takes it with resignation, but you can see that a plan is already evolving in his head which will rid the household of the older doctor and win for himself the favor of the girl and her father.

VILLAIN HATED TO ABUSE MARY PICKFORD.

The man who is called on to mete out unlimited abuse to Mary Pickford invariably has the most difficult job in motion pictures. Many screen villains, who have appearad in her past productions will assure you of this and David Torrence, who created situations replete with conflict in Miss Pickford's latest cinema effort, a new production of "Tess of the Storm Country," the current attraction at the Templet theater, arises to impress it with all the emphasis in his power.

"I've done most everything required of an actor in following his profession of making believe all kinds of things, but what taxed my endurance and tender heart most of all was to be so terribly mean to Mary Pickford while she was portraying the character of the lovable Tess," Torrence said. "Honestly, it hurt me to have to mistreat her the way I was obliged to do in this picture, because of all the women I've ever met she deserves the least harshness."

"ANOTHER MAN'S SHOES" AT PRINCESS TOMORROW.

There have been countless examples in history of "doubles."

Can a wife or sweetheart tell the difference between a man and his impersonator?

This mysterious and intriguing phase of life is pictured in "Another Man's Shoes," the Universal attraction that will be shown at the Princess theater tomorrow and Monday starring Herbert Rawlinson.

CHANGES URGED BY C. OF C. IN MOTOR LAWS ASSAILED

County Auto Club Leader Hits Legislation Aimed at Solid Tires

RAPS CITY TAX PLAN

Suggestions Advanced By Booster Body Called 'Impossible'

Suggested changes in the motor vehicle law contained in resolutions passed by the Associated Chambers of Commerce at its November-December meeting at Orange last month, are impossible, in the opinion of A. S. Ralph, manager of the Orange County Auto club.

The resolutions urged legislation eliminating solid tires from the highways, except on horse-drawn vehicles, and authorizing municipalities to pass ordinances levying taxes upon trucks and other vehicles passing through a city from one outside point to another.

"Incorporation into law of the suggestion of giving municipalities the right to levy licenses would throw us back to the time when there was no uniformity in the motor vehicle laws of the state," said Ralph.

Sees Truckmen Hit

"It would put the truckmen out of business, as there would be no uniformity of taxes. It would add a burden that would be passed on to the public. It would put truck transportation in the hands of every little town, to benefit their own selfish ends and not for the benefit of the public at large."

"Imposition of such regulations would produce a situation that obtains in France," said A. J. Ralph, of the club's insurance department. "They would, in effect, necessitate the installation of gates at each point of egress and ingress for the collection of

Issuance of License Plates for 1923 to Begin in L. A. Friday

Issuance of 1923 automobile licenses at the Los Angeles branch office of the state motor vehicle department will begin Friday, according to information reaching here from that city.

New license plates, black and white in design, are scheduled to reach Los Angeles Monday. The starting number for that branch will be 400-001 and will run to 600-000. It is not believed that 200-000 plates alloted to the city will be sufficient to meet the demands of those motorists of the Southland who will apply to the branch for their plates.

According to the latest information, owners who do not apply before March 2 for the new plates will be subject to a pentlay of 25 per cent of the registration fee.

SO. CAL. AUTO CLUB FOLK MAY NOW APPLY FOR 1923 LICENSES

The Santa Ana branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California is now receiving applications of members for 1923 licenses, Elmer Heidt, manager, announced here today.

Heidt pointed out, however, that the club this year would limit this service exclusively to members of the organization. He said that for a member to receive the service he must produce a membership card. The courtesy of assistance will be extended to visiting motorists from outside the state, Heidt stated.

Incidentally, it was stated that operators' licenses do not have to be renewed. It is essential, however, that every driver have an operators' license. Those who have lost their license cards may procure duplicates by payment of 25 ents. Applications must be made out on a special form.

TO RETIRE NOTES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Retirement of all outstanding victory notes in advance of their maturity date, May 20, was made possible by the treasury, which announced that it would redeem the notes upon presentation, whether or not they had been called for redemption.

The treasury announcement will permit redemption of about 850 million of notes which have not been called, it was said.

FINE MOTOR IS FEATURE OF CHANDLER

Eugene Planned on Mountain Specifications Makes Decided Hit

With a phenomenal new motor, new chassis and new bodies, disclosed for the first time today at the opening of the New York show the Chandler Motor Car company enters 1923 with the most notable cars of its successful history, according to L. E. Carpenter, local Chandler distributor.

The Pikes Peak motor is naturally the outstanding feature of the new Chandler, Carpenter says.

"The motor name is literally correct," said the agent. "It was earned, for in order that the motor might have every attribute of power to pull any hill, every assurance of safe and facile steering, of non-heating and of silent action under all conceivable conditions, it was built to conquer the strains of Pike's Peak, the most lofty automobile highway known.

"Those who planned and engineered the new motor reasoned that if it had capacity enough to make Pike's Peak easy, it would have sufficient margin to triumph in the most extreme test that that might be exacted of it.

"The motor was built to a mountain's specification in order to meet a public demand that constantly grows more critical.

Faults Eliminated

"The extent to which this has been accomplished is almost revolutionary. Faults that to some extent have been present in almost every make of car are eliminated.

"By the test of actual driving it can be shown that there is no noise or vibration, and that the scientifically delivered power permits a most amazing degree of acceleration.

"The story of the development of the motor is one of painstaking research and exhaustive tests. The basic design was created in 1917. Ever since then the Chandler staff has been changing, developing and testing the motor and its separate units until recently the finally approved motor was put in production.

"To get the balance essential to the perfectly operating automo-

BANKERS, AUTO DEALERS PLAN CONFERENCE

Used Car Sales Problem To Be Taken Up Here Thursday Night

Bankers and motor dealers of the county will have a heart-to-heart talk over the automobile business, as it obtains in this county, at a meeting of the motor dealers' craft of the Orange County Automobile Trades association to be held Thursday evening at the Cherry Blossom here.

According to Herbert O. Davis, secretary of the organization, bankers of the county are deeply interested in the success of the automobile agents. The conference will involve discussions on the problems of the dealers in handling used cars.

Dealers declare that buying and selling of used cars, particularly with reference to trade-ins on old cars, is causing them losses annually by reason of the fact that local agents have been allowing more for second-hand cars than have dealers in Los Angeles or any other county in California.

It is pointed out that with this condition obtaining, local agents must sell at a price higher than rules at other places. The financiers will be asked to suggest a solution to the problem. It is the belief of the agents that with co-operation of bankers, conditions can be created that will give the dealers a fighting chance for their business life.

106,327 FORDS ARE SOLD IN NOVEMBER

According to a statement just received by Knox & Stout, Ford dealers here, from the Ford Motor company, deliveries of Ford cars and trucks to retail buyers during the month of November totalled 106,327. This is a new high sales record that has never before been approached by the company at that season of the year, and one which stands out in marked contrast to the November, 1921, retail delivery figures, which totalled slightly more than 58,000 cars and trucks, it was said.

For eight consecutive months, beginning with April 1 of last year, retail deliveries exceeded 100,000 Ford cars and trucks each month. The accumulated total for the first eleven months of 1922 was approximately 1,200,000. While the company pointed out that it was not unusual for Ford retail sales to exceed the 100,000 mark during the spring and early summer months when the demand is at its peak, the manner in which business has held up throughout the balance of the year is without precedent.

HOUSE BILL WOULD BOOST IMMIGRATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Representative Box, Democrat of Texas, a member of the immigration committee, introduced a bill today which would reduce the immigration to the United States 2 per cent of the number of each nationality now here, based on the census of 1890. The present law provides for 3 per cent based on the census of 1910. The effect of this amendment, it is said, would be to increase the proportion of immigration from northern Europe.

INQUIRY ASKED ON GOVERNOR'S DRINKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Investigation of the Upshaw charges that some governors and many other high officials "do not practice the prohibition enforcement which they preach," was called for in a resolution introduced by Representative Hill, Republican, Maryland.

Pointing out that the statement as to drinking had been made by Representative Upshaw, Democrat, Georgia, on the floor of the house, the resolution declared that publication of the charges, if untrue, was "a grave wrong to this body" and that if true the responsibility should be placed where it belongs.

IGNITION MAN GOES BACK TO OLD DUTIES

Thomas Willitts, former service manager for the Orange County Ignition works, will return to that position next Monday, Earl Matthews, president and manager of the company announced today. Willits resigned several months ago to take up another line of work.

"We were sorry to lose "Tommy" when he left, for he is a very efficient man," said Matthews. "It is with pride and pleasure that I announce that he has decided again to identify himself with our organization.

"The position of service manager is one that requires tact and amiability, and these Tom possesses in marked degree.

"As president of the Efficiency club of the Orange County Ignition works, Willitts did everything in his power to urge every man on to better and bigger things."

Willitts has a host of friends among patrons of the organization who are pleased to learn that he is to return to his old position.

The one best resolution for every motorist to make is to drive more carefully during 1923, in the opinion of Otto Haan, president and manager of the Cadillac Garage company, Cadillac and Hupmobile distributor.

He pointed out that accidents are due to some one's carelessness.

The three words—stop, look and listen—are mighty good words to remember, he said.

He uttered this precaution partly in anticipation of the rainy season just ahead. January and February usually are the "wet months" in this section.

Rain Held Big Factor

"According to statistics, more accidents occur on rainy than on dry days," said Haan. "This is largely due to the fact that motorists here have not educated themselves to wet weather driving."

To impress local drivers with the possibility of accidents on slippery pavements, Haan posed a Cadillac suburban and a five-passenger Hupmobile at the corner of Main and Fourth streets.

He pointed out that the imitation collision illustrated what might happen when a fast turn was attempted on wet pavement.

Both Lose Control

He said that not only does the driver of a rapidly moving car lose control of his own car, but in case there is another motor car at the crossing it is a nine-to-one shot that the operator of the latter cannot stop his car suddenly.

Haan also cautioned that "riding" street car tracks in wet weather is dangerous. He advises that to turn off a track the motorists should slow down and turn wheels at almost a right angle.

"When the streets are wet and 'skiddy,5 don't bump the traffic button," said the agency manager. "It is a proeeding that is very likely to cause a skid, even with chains on the wheels."

TRAVELLER NEW STAR, DURANT SALES HEAD

H. D. Traveller, well known local automobile salesman, today had assumed the position of sales manager for the Appleby Motor company, county distributor for the Durant and Star automobiles.

He takes the position made vacant by the disappearance recently of Robert Atkinson.

Traveller has had a wide experience in the sale of automobiles in Orange county and knows the territory thoroughly.

He predicted a big year for the Durant and Star and declared his belief that the sales reord made by the latter car since its advent on the market would continue.

B. M. Cooley, who has had charge of the office since the ageny opened, will become a salesman, a position that he has had an ambition to accept since becoming identified with the agency.

KELLY MOVES AGENCY ONE DOOR TO WEST

H. H. Kelley, distributor for the Wills Saint Claire, has moved his agency to 116 East Fifth street, one door west of his old location at Fifth and Bush streets.

Kelly has vacated his old quarters to make room for the establishment of a public market.

CONTRACTS FOR NEXT LINK IN COAST ROAD UP TO NEW BOARD

Strip Between Huntington and Newport Beaches to Be Rushed, Belief

DEEDS ARE SECURED

Concrete Being Poured On Section of Boulevard Near Naples

Contract for construction of that section of the coast boulevard lying between Huntington Beach and Newport will not be let by the present highway commission, it became definitely known here today.

Whatever hopes that N. D. Darlington, chairman of the commission, that such a contract would be let before the present members stepped out, were impossible of fulfillment, said J. L. McBride, superintendent of Orange county highways.

According to McBride. deeds for rights of way through properties between the two points are now in the hands of T. B. Talbert, chairman of the board of supervisors.

The deeds, prepared by the state highway department, contain descriptions of pieces required, and are ready for owners' signatures.

To Rush Preliminaries

It is expected that their circulation will proceed with all possible haste so that when the new commission comes into power, there will be no delay in getting work actively under way to make the building of the highway an accomplished fact at the earliest date possible.

The new commission, it is anticipated, will give this section consideration at an early date, in view of the fact that construction is now under way on the section between the city limits of Long Beach and Seal Beach.

Pouring of concrete is now in progress on the latter work. A paving force is working near Naples, according to McBride. Jettying of fifty-foot concrete piles for the bridge to be erected across San Gabriel river, in Los Angeles county is under way, McBride said.

While the bridge is on the coast boulevard, it is being built by Los Angeles county.

Plain Facts for Fair Minds

The literal truth is, that the Hupmobile is a fine car at a low price. You can establish that truth easily, and to your own satisfaction.

The facts are available to anyone. Any independent garage mechanic will tell you how soundly and wisely the Hupmobile is engineered; how finely it is built.

Any Hupmobile owner will tell you how amazingly little it costs for upkeep, and for operation; and how thoroughly reliable and consistent it is in service throughout the years.

Its comparative absence from the used-car columns will give you some idea of its high value when you re-sell it; and its price will convince you that it is one of the world's greatest motor car values when you buy it.

bile, it was necessary to add much to the strength and ruggedness of the construction, in order to compensate for the great increase in power.

"Therefore, the new motor was cast in a single block with a removable head, the latter factor also giving a material increase in accessibility.

"A larger radiator has been adopted. While retaining the characteristic lines of the Chandler, the new shell is handsomer, being higher and deeper, giving the ideal slope along the upper line of radiator, hood and cowl.

New Body Lines

"Similar progress has been made in the bodies. Not only have they all been refined and improved in appearance, comfort and finish, but a new model has been added to the line.

"This is the Chummy Sedan, a Chandler creation—a car that meets the public demand for a high-class enclosed car, with all the comfort of the usual sedan, but at a price little greater than that of a touring car.

"The two door Chummy Sedan is more than a new car—it is a new kind of car, a Chandler surprise for 1923. A clever interior arrangement makes it unusually roomy, seating five passengers.

"The Royal Dispatch, a four-passenger sport model will be adjudged one of the most beautiful cars offered this year. It is entirely new in design. The five and seven-passenger touring cars do not differ greatly in general appearance from last year's models, but are marked with numerous refinements of detail."

NEW LAW NEED SEEN DUE TO FATAL WRECK

The accident on the Westminster boulevard last night, in which two persons were killed and one was seriously injured, emphasizes the necessity of a state law requiring more visible lights on the rear of trucks and trailers in the opinion of W. B. Leecraft, sales manager of the Spurgeon Furniture company.

Leecraft pointed out that the custom of hanging swinging lamps on the rear of a loaded truck or trailer is responsible for many accidents on the highways at night. He declared that the globes of such lamps frequently become covered with dirt, with the result that the light is not brilliant enough to attract the attention of a driver until a machine is nearly upon the vehicle carrying such a light.

Leecraft declared that effort should be made at once by Orange county residents to present to the assemblyman and state senator from this district a draft of an amendment to the motor vehicle law providing that trucks and trailers must carry lights of certain brilliancy.

"Aside from the possibility of light of a lantern being obscured by dirt accumulating on the globe, effectiveness of the lantern as a warning signal is reduced by the fact that it usually is swinging," said Leecraft. "A law should be enacted requiring a certain brilliancy and the measure should be enforced. I have had many narrow escapes on the highways by coming suddenly upon a truck and trailer with the lantern on the trailer shedding such a dim light that I did not see the vehicles until the lights of my own machine made the truck and trailer visible."

PROBATION PLEA OF DRIVER IS DEFERRED

Thomas Hogan's hearing on a probation petition was continued to January 10 by Superior Judge Z. B. West.

Hogan pleaded guilty to operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and applied for probation. The hearing was to have occurred yesterday, but was continued at the defendant's request.

DALE SALES POINT TO EXCELLENT YEAR

The sale of six Packards, ten Reos and one Reo Speed wagon, and their delivery recently, was responsible for declaration today by J. W. Tubbs, salesmanager for Dale and Company, distributor for these cars, that his firm anticipates a big business in 1923.

"The year has opened most auspiciously and indications point to a big volume of business in Orange county in the sale of Packards and Reos during 1923," declared the manager.

Packard sedans were delivered to Margaret Condon, Anaheim, and Dr. Harry Stryker, Judge R. Y. Williams and A. B. Watson, Santa Ana. The latter received a seven-passenger car and the others five-passenger cars. A twin six touring car was delivered to Edward Journigan, Anaheim; and a sport single six to Otto C. Keeban, also of Anaheim.

Five-passenger Reo sedans went to Earl Talcott and C. J. Squires, Anaheim, and J. L. Palmer, Orange; sedan and coupe to Rolla Hayes, Santa Ana; phaetons to Lula M. Joy and C. J. Pearson, Anaheim, and William Rohrbacker, Santa Ana; seven-passenger touring to D. M. Forney, Tustin, and coupe to Dr. Gunning Butler, Santa Ana.

taxes. In France they have such gates, handed down from the medieval days, where attendants measure the amount of gas in the tank of a car when it enters the city, remeasure when the cars leave, and collect a tax on the amount of gas consumed while in the city.

How Would Farmer Feel?

"How would an Orange county farmer feel if he loaded his product on a truck and had to pay a city tax before he would be permitted to drive through a city, if it should be necessary to drive through a municipality to reach the point of discharge of his product?"

A. S. Ralph pointed that strict interpretation of the suggestion for prohibition of solid tires, would also prohibit wheel-barrows, baby carriages, etc., on paved roads.

"I believe in proper regulation and licensing of truck traffic, to the end that business enterprises that use the highways for private gain may be made to bear a just proportion of the cost and maintenance of such highways," he said.

"On the other hand, however, the restrictions contained in the Associated Chambers resolution savor more of bygone days than of efforts at progress and development of the resources of the country."

Pointing to the suggestion that maximum weight limits of trucks be reduced below the limit of today, he said that in discussing maximum weight, it should be borne in mind that it is speed and not weight that does the most damage to the highways.

ACCIDENTS ARE CREDITED TO CARELESS

"Does the title 'Beautiful and Dumb', made famous by F. Scott Fitzgerald and a certain Los Angeles movie actor, apply to the women drivers of this section of the state?" asks Elmer Heidt, manager of the local branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

"Officials of the club declare that the recent statement issued by Dr. Clyde B. Moore, psychologist of the University of Pittsburg, that instances of people of from twenty-five to thirty-five years of age with a mentality of seven year old children in charge of automobiles today is alarming, does not apply particularly to the southern counties of California.

Many authorities state that the 'jazz age' has struck a large number of drivers, but club officials say that most of the accidents are traceable to carelessness and recklessness rather than to plain jazz. However, the big club has no desire to see this part of the west inoculated with eastern jazz germs, and so its safety bureau has just issued a warning to the motoring public to watch its stop and not get funny with the throttle.

"According to Dr. Moore, who gave army mental tests during the world war and who urges that applicants for drivers licenses be subject to similar mental tests, his war records show many instances of men twenty-five to thirty-five years of age having the minds of very young children, trying to handle army motor trucks,—the number of such persons in charge of automobiles on city streets today should alarm us," states Dr. Moore in a recent report which has received widespread attention.

lar bridge to construct across Anaheim bay. McBride said that he was daily expecting plans from the state engineering department. The expense will be borne by Orange county, and it is expected bids will be called for just as soon as the plans are approved.

With a change in the personnel of the commission and extensive contracts let for the coast highway through the Malibu ranch, residents of Orange county are wondering whether there is a possibility of the coast road being built from Newport Beach to Laguna Beach and Serra under the funds available from the last state bond issue of $40,000,000.

RAIN WRECKS LAID TO FAULTY BRAKES

Many of the accidents occuring during rainy season are laid to faulty brakes, according to David Nelson, proprietor of the West End Garage, 601 West Fourth street.

"The motorist who is driving his car with faulty brakes," said Nelson, "is not only risking his own life but the lives and property of others and is 'taking a chance' with the law. While December 19 was official Brake Day a large majority of motorists have not had their brakes given proper attention. I notice this daily in the number of cars on which I do mechanical work.

"In view of the extremely low cost attached to having brakes put in proper working order every motorist should see to it that his brakes are properly lined and adjusted."

STERILIZATION FLAYED

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The federal government was appealed to in the fight for sterilization of habitual criminals. Chief Justice Harry Oleson, of the Chicago municipal court, in a letter to a member of President Harding's cabinet, urged the necessity of federal co-operation.

MUSICAL NUMBERS AT BIBLE CLASS MEETING

PLACENTIA, Jan. 6.—The Placentia Bible class expects to have a very interesting meeting next Sunday, January 7, at the Round Table club house.

The Immanuel male quartette, which is helping out in the Orange county Christian Endeavor meetings over the entire county, will be at the class to sing.

Mr. Couch the soloist, and whistler for Harry Anderson, will lead the music Sunday morning. The subject for the lesson will be "Dropped by the Nurse."

BUILDERS URGE OBSERVANCE OF LAWS

Declaration will be made in a resolution to be presented to the city council here by a committee of the Orange county auxiliary of the Los Angeles Builders' exchange that W. S. Decker, building inspector, is not given sufficient office help to handle the business of the office properly, it became known today following a meeting of the auxiliary at which the president was authorized to appoint a committee to draft the resolution. The resolution will urge also a more strict enforcement of the building code and also that no permits be issued for erection of buildings in the fire limits unless they fully comply with the fire and building ordinance.

Attending the meeting of the auxiliary were President Simons of the exchange and Directors Langworthy and Lockhart.

Urges Co-operation.

Simons emphasized the necessity and importance of the building trades industry being allied in a co-operating body, if any headway is to be made in eliminating the irresponsible contractor and dishonest use of poor material and the evasion of building laws.

Orange county is the first county to be granted a charter for an auxiliary division of the Los Angeles exchange, it was said. The movement for the formation of a chapter was received enthusiastically and more than thirty of the leading firms allied in the building interests have affiliated. While functioning separately as a local unit, with its own officers and board of directors, the local chapter is a branch of the Los Angeles exchange, and is represented on the board of directors of the parent body by George R. Wells.

The officers of the local branch are J. Simon Flour, president; George R. Wells, secretary; George Barrows, first vice president; O. H. Barr and R. G. Wells, executive board.

Here Are Members.

The following firms are members:

E. M. Doyle, district manager for the Southern Service company's laundry system, with headquarters at Riverside, was here yesterday inspecting two of the company's local pants—that of the Santa Ana laundry and that of the Nu Way laundry at Orange. While here Doyle announced the appointment of C. K. Criswell as manager of the Santa Ana laundry. Criswell comes here from Monrovia, where he has been in charge of the company's plant. He has also acted as assistant superintendent of the Long Beach unit. C. W. Burns, who has been directing the affairs of the Santa Ana laundry, will be associated with Criswell.

S. A.-TUSTIN BODY OF GROWERS FORMED

The Santa Ana-Tustin Citrus association today was recognized as the latest local co-operative body of orange and lemon growers, following its organization last night at St. Ann's Inn.

The association will handle its fruit through the Mutual Orange distributors, which recently secured a lease on the E. D. Burge packing house on Lyon street, near First.

Officers and directors were elected as follows:

E. D. Burge, president; H. L. Bascom, vice president; J. L. Bascom, secretary; Charles N. Archer and M. L. Replogle.

Membership of the association as it was today represented approximately sixty-five carloads of citrus fruit, but it was expected that the membership and acreage would be increased before the opening of the Valencia season next May. The season pack will begin on Valencias and later on lemons will be packed.

Secretary Bascom stated that any grower interested in becoming identified with the association may get information by applying to any of the directors.

MEN WITH SAWS AND HAMMERS ARE CALLED

Construction of a temporary clubhouse on the Y. M. C. A. site on the northwest corner of Sycamore and Church streets will begin Wednesday afternoon, Ralph Smedley, building secretary, announced today.

Smedley said that those interested in the business men's gymnasium plans are expected to gather at the grounds that afternoon prepared to assist in erecting the building that will house them until the new Y. M. C. A. building is completed.

With Hammers, Saws

The workers are expected to appear with overalls and with hammers and saws in hands. The playground pavement has been completed.

It was announced that the Y. M. C. A. offices would be transferred from the First National Bank building to the temporary structure just as soon as the latter is completed.

Following removal to the new location local work will center at the building, Smedley said.

100 in Class.

According to Smedley, nearly 100 men have signed for the business man's gymnasium class, which is to meet three evenings each week, at 5 o'clock, for play and exercise.

Under the direction of T. P. McKee, community secretary, a group of Y. M. C. A. boys this forenoon built backstops for the basketball courts. The playground provides space for three basketball games to be in progress simultaneously. Other groups will give time next week to cleaning and otherwise preparing the grounds for use.

COLLEGE FRIEND IS HONOREE AT DINNER

She continued to paint on her journey around the world until she now has a large exhibit at her studio in Santa Ana. News From Orange County Towns

BOND ELECTION JANUARY 27 AT TUSTIN

TUSTIN, Jan. 6. — Sentiment seems favorable in Tustin towards the $48,000 bond issue, which is to be voted upon here January 27, according to C. A Wise, the district school superintendent, today.

The purpose of the election, Mr. Wise said, was to authorize the district school board to issue the bonds to purchase a tract of land about two acres in size and for providing for the necessary money with which to erect two additions, a three room annex to the primary building and a two-room addition to the grammar school building. In addition, a garage would be built to house school busses and sundry items—such as plumbing and heating—would be taken care of.

Of the issue about $16,000 would be used for the purchase of the tract from Will Cheney, who has extended to the school board the first opportunity to purchase the land, it was said. With the addition of the Cheney tract, the school will hold about three blocks of property.

The rapid growth of Tustin in population and the consequent increase in school pupils has made the election necessary, the board held, in ordering the election at their meeting January 2. Prof. Wise pointed out that at the present time nearly 500 pupils are being housed in 15 rooms, and that no allowance for increase in space is provided.

Tustin is growing so rapidly, he said, that if adequate provision is not made for school expansion, much the same situation will prevail there next year as faced Santa Ana recently. Four tracts of land have been thrown open for sale around the building, and at the present time nine bungalows are under the course of construction upon the land.

NEARLY MILE LAID OF NEW SEWER PIPE

TALBERT, Jan. 6.—Three-fourths of a mile of pipe for the Santa Ana sewer system, which passes east of Talbert, has been laid and steady progress continues to be made as a result of the perfect weather conditions.

Fulsom and Talbert, who have the contract for digging the ditch, have reached the Adams road. They will lay a section of pipe across the road as soon as the excavation is made and this will be connected up when the main line reaches this point. The ditch work is being done by steam shovel, the Talbert dredger being employed.

MONTHLY PAYROLL IN OIL FIELDS IS HIGH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—A careful canvas of the oil field here has disclosed the fact that there are 2280 men employed at an average of $7 per day, which would make the sum of $478,800 for the month of 30 days at work seven days per week. This does not make allowance for extras who take the place of men who lay off for a day or so, or who may be away on account of sickness or accident. These figures are very conservative and show the immense business which is being done in this field.

MRS. YENS IS HOSTESS

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me so much that I soon felt fine."—Mrs. CHARLES BEELER, 1910 Elk St., Port Huron, Mich.

DRAINAGE WORK IS PROGRESSING WELL

TALBERT, Jan. 6.—The first directors' meeting for the year was held on Tuesday by both the Newbert Protection District and Talbert drainage district, the meetings being held as usual at the offices of the district's respective attorneys.

Reports given on river work by the protection board showed good progress was being made on the river at the county farm where a levee is under construction from the Chapman street bridge to the Santa Fe track. This work is to be finished Saturday of this week, it is expected.

Work by the pile-driver has been under way south of First street, where the banks are being reinforced and the driver was transferred Tuesday of this week to the point south of the Adams bridge, where the main break in the banks occurred last winter. Twenty-four foot piling will be driven in and six-foot mesh wire strung as a protection against possible floods.

The Newbert dredger was reported as laid up for the year with no work along its line under way.

The Talbert drainage district reported its dredger rented out for a time and no work in progress at present on canals.

DRILLING CASE IS TO COME UP SOON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—City Attorney L. W. Blodget has completed his briefs and filed them this week in the case of the Palisades company against City Marshal John Tinsley and the city of Huntington Beach. The case is being heard by Judge Z. B. West. It was agreed at the recent filing and hearing of the demurrer placed by the city through Attorney Blodget that briefs be submitted by both sides in the argument.

In discussing the case Mr. Blodget said that the question of the violation of the fourteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States was the big issue. This is the taking of property or depriving a citizen of his property without the due process of law.

Against this contention is the matter of the police regulations of the city for the protection of the public peace and safety. The recent fire, it is held, shows that the public safety is violated by the proximity of the oil wells.

The Palisades company contends that oil wells, sump holes, engines and boilers are fit objects to place alongside of residences.

The contention that restriction ordinance No. 209 was not signed by the president will not make any difference, admitting that it was not, as the trustees passed the ordinance and the signature of its president is immaterial. This is the first case of this kind in California, but in a similar case in a Kentucky court the judge ruled that the president of a board of trustees has no veto power, and that he signs merely as a matter of identification. The entire board passes the ordinances, it was held, Blodget declared.

The contention that when they acquired this property there were only twenty two and three-room houses in thirty-six city blocks is immaterial, he holds, for in a similar case at Pasadena the judge stated that it made no difference as to the size and value of the houses occupied by workmen, and ruled as follows:

"Even if immediately surrounded by a poorer class of residences, the occupants of these homes are entitled in law to as much consideration as those occupying the magnificent palaces on the banks of the Arroyo Seco."

GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dozier entertained a number of relatives at dinner New Year's day in honor of the latter's father, J. A. Bodenhamer, who celebrated his eighty-second birthday.

The house was beautifully decorated with red and green in keeping with the holiday season.

Covers were laid for the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bodenhamer, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carter and daughter, Pauline, of Yorba Linda, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bodenhamer and daughters, Minnie and Alta, and son, John; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hariston and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Dozier and family.

The Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church held their regular monthly meeting at the church Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Richmond led the devotions and Mrs. J. O. Arkley read the lesson from the regular study book on the subject "China." A short business meeting was held.

There was a large attendance at the watch night service, held at the Baptist church Sunday evening. The Rev. Mr. Harper, of Los Angeles, preached at the evening service and the meeting was continued until 12 o'clock. Reports were given and the installation of officers was held. Prayer week has been held at the Baptist church all week. Their last meeting will be held Friday evening.

M. B. and J. G. Allen, William Lehnhardt and C. E. Pollins left Thursday morning for the Mojhave desert on a hunting trip, to be gone until Friday evening.

The Rev. Mr. Rhoades and family returned Wednesday from Lindsey, where they were called two weeks ago by the illness of a grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Nunn, of Tulare, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hayes and family. Mrs. Nunn and Mrs. Hayes were school chums.

Miss Olive and Mabel Northcross, Delbert Wilkinson and Leavitt Ford of Santa Ana, spent New Year's day at Pasadena and Los Angeles.

Miss Muriel Arkley returned to U. S. C. Tuesday, after spending two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Arkley.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Allen and Mrs. Menta Maas attended the dedication services at the Angelus temple at Echo park, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodworth and daughter, Miss Mabel, spent Monday in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Arkley and family entertained the following dinner guests Sunday: Miss Harriett Brown, Floyd and Ruth Andres and Kenneth Dungan.

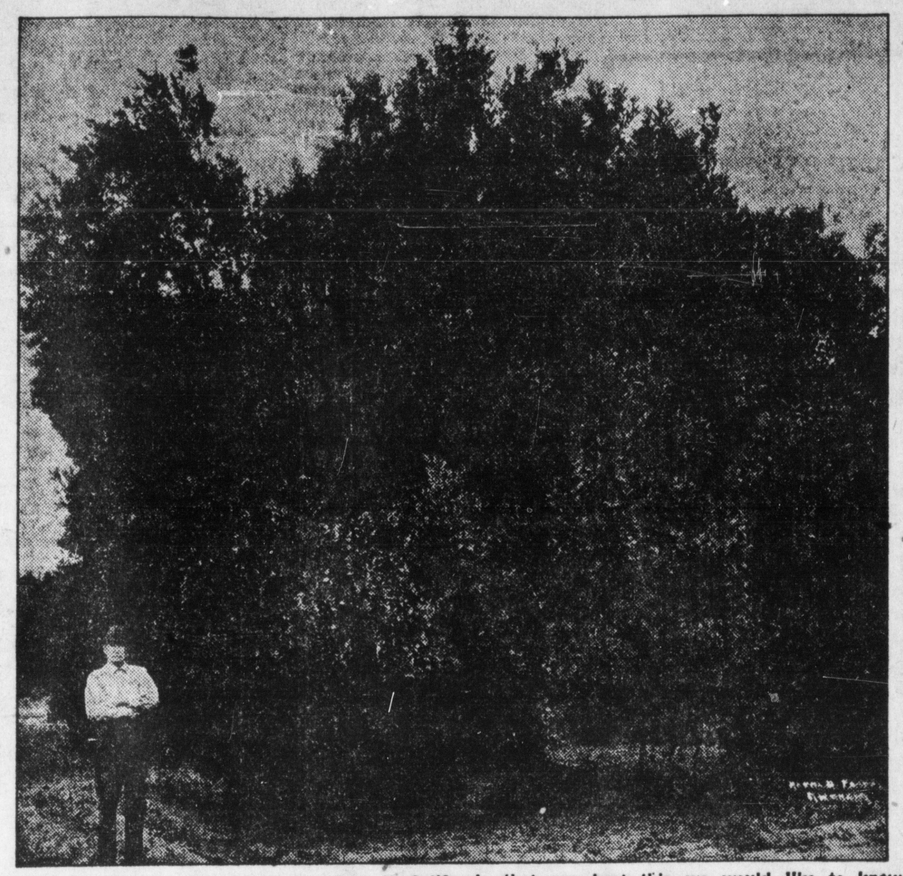

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Waltz and daughter, Mrs. Lynn Pollins, and Mrs. Simpson and daughter Eloise, spent New Year's day in Pasadena.

Mr. J. O. Arkley and daughter, Muriel, and son, Kenneth, attended the football game at Pasadena New Year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon King and children and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. German attended the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena New Year's day.

J. C. Armstrong and Lynn Pollins, who are working in the oil fields at Inglewood, were home Monday night and Tuesday.

IS THIS THE LARGEST ORANGE TREE IN STATE OF CALIFORNIA? ANAHEIM CHAMBER CLAIMS IT IS

"If there is any orange tree anywhere in California that can beat this we would like to know where it is. In the meantime we claim that this is the largest orange tree in the state," said Manager G. W. Sandilands of the Anaheim Orange and Lemon association in speaking of the Brunworth orange tree pictured here. He said that various citrus associations had been claiming an honor that truly belonged to Anaheim.

BIG INCREASE IN OIL PRODUCTION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—That Huntington Beach field has gone forward with a big stride may be gathered from the fact that a year ago there were 78 oil wells producing 17,895 barrels daily, while today the record has gone as high as 81,506 barrels daily from 194 producing wells. On January 6, 1921, there were eighty-five companies in the field, drilling 232 wells, while today there are also 85 companies drilling 399 wells.

There have been but five wells abandoned as non-producers up to this time. The average per well at this time is 370 barrels and the value of the production for the field is $55,138 daily.

Production this week is 88,617 barrels. Five new wells come in.

BRIDE RECOVERING

ANAHEIM, Jan. 6.—The condition of Mrs. H. C. Loptien, pretty 22-year-old Anaheim bride, who attempted to end her life a few days ago by swallowing poison, is slightly improved, but she is not yet out of danger, according to statements made by attending physicians today. Mrs. Loptien still refuses to comment on the circumstances which led her to swallow bichloride of mercury tablets, following an alleged quarrel with her husband, a worker in the Brea oil fields.

HAS HUSBAND JAILED

ANAHEIM, Jan. 6. — Casper Chalmers, who operates a small restaurant on North Los Angeles street, spent from Saturday night until Monday morning in the Fullerton city jail on a charge of disturbing the peace. The complaint was signed by his wife, who declared that her husband had cursed and used other vile language in her presence. Chalmers was released by City Recorder G. B. Brown, who has the case under advisement.

OLD FASHIONED SEEDLING IS BEARING YET

Anaheim boasts of the largest orange tree in California. The tree stands in the grove of J. H. Brunsworth, son-in-law of the late Henry Koeger who died recently, the last of the intrepid band of Anaheim pioneers.

Forty-five years ago when this tree was planted, the growers knew nothing about budded varieties and the tree is known as an old fashioned seedling. It began to grow in 1877 very near what is now known as the northwest corner of East and Center Streets at the eastern limit of Anaheim's corporate bounds.

Since it reached full bearing, it has yielded nearly 700 boxes of fruit, almost two carloads. In some seasons this patriarch of the citrus family apprroached a yield of forty boxes, but G. W. Sandilands of the Anaheim Orange and Lemon association feels that it would be safe to place the average annual yield at twenty boxes.

Mr. Brunsworth recently measured this giant tree and found it to be 30 feet in spread, 25 feet high and 5 feet 2 inches around the bole one foot from the ground. It was 40 feet high but 15 feet were cut off the top so as to permit fumigation, there being no "tent" large enough in dimensions to cover it for that purpose.

According to Mr. Sandilands, the fruit, though unmarketable because of seeds, is more finely flavored than any from the budded varieties now commercially grown. The ancient tree is flourishing, as may be seen from the photograph.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by Rafael Sabatini

© RAFAEL SABATINI
ARRGT NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CAPTAIN BLOOD, physician and adventurer, becomes the slave of COLONEL BISHOP on the island of Barbados, having been sent there after an unjust conviction on a charge of treason against King James of England. He is permitted unusual freedom because of his knowledge of medicine and thus enabled to become the leader in a plot to escape from the island. One of his fellow conspirators is

JEREMY PITT, a young shipmaster. An interesting friendship develops between Blood and

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Sitting close they talked in whispers for an hour or more. They would need to recruit others into their enterprise, a half-dozen at least, a half-score if possible, but no more than that. They must pick the best out of that score of survivors of the Monmouth men that Colonel Bishop had acquired. Men who understood the sea were desirable. But of those there were only two in that unfortunate gang, and their knowledge was none too full. They were Hagthorpe, a gentleman who had served in the Royal Navy, and Nicholas Dyke, who had been a petty officer in the late king's time, and there was another who had been a gunner, a man named Ogle.

"Caution above everything," was Blood's last recommendation to him at parting.

Coming next morning to the wharf, Blood found Dr. Whacker in a generous mood.

"It's not money I'll require," said he, "but the boat itself. For who will be selling me a boat and incurring the penalties in Governor Steed's proclamation? Ye'll have read it, no doubt?"

Dr. Whacker smiled a little with tight lips. "I've thought of it. You will see that the man who buys the boat must be one of those who goes with you—so that he is not here to answer questions afterward."

"But who is to go with me save men in my own case? What I cannot do, they cannot."

"There are others detained on the island besides slaves. There are several who are here for debt, and would be glad enough to spread their wings. There's a fellow Nuttall, now, who follows the trade of a shipwright, whom I know would welcome such a chance as you might afford him."

"But how should a debtor come with money to buy a boat?' The question will be asked."

"To be sure it will. But if you contrive shrewdly, you'll all be gone before that happens."

So well did Blood take him that within an hour he contrived to see Nuttall, and found the fellow as disposed to the business as Dr. Whacker had predicted. When he left the shipwright, it was agreed that Nuttall should seek the boat required, for which Blood would at once produce the money.

At the end of some three weeks, Nuttall informed him that he had found a serviceable wherry, and that its owner was disposed to sell it for twenty-two pounds. That evening, on the beach, Peter Blood handed the sum to his new associate, and Nuttall went off with instructions to complete the purchase late on the following day, and then bring the boat to the wharf, where under cover of night Blood and his fellow-convicts would join him and make off.

At sunset Peter Blood was hailed by Colonel Bishop. "There's the Governor, with an attack of gout, screaming like a wounded horse. Be off, man—away with you at speed to Government House! Best lend him a horse, Kent, or the lout'll be all night getting there."

They bustled him away, choking almost from a reluctance that he dared not show. The thing was unfortunate; but after all not beyond remedy. The escape was set for midnight, and he should easily be back by then.

He mounted the horse that Kent procured him, intending to make all haste.

"How shall I re-enter the stockade, sir?" he inquired at parting.

"You'll not re-enter it," said Bishop. "When they've done with you at Government House, they may find a kennel for you there until morning."

Peter Blood went off in a state of mind bordering on despair. A postponement of the escape at least until tomorrow night was necessary now, and postponement must mean the discovery of Nuttall's transaction and the asking of questions it would be difficult to answer.

Not until the early hours of the morning did Peter Blood succeed in making a temporary escape from Government House on the ground that he required certain medicaments which he must, himself, procure from the apothecary.

On that pretext, he made an excursion into the awakening town, and went straight to Nuttall.

"It will be for tonight instead," he said, with more assurance than he felt, "if I have to bleed the Governor to death. Be ready as last night."

"But if there are questions meanwhile?" bleated Nuttall.

"Answer as best you can. Use your wits, man. I can stay no longer." And Peter went off to the apothecary for his drugs.

Within an hour of his going came an officer of the Secretary's to Nuttall's miserable hovel. The seller of the boat had duly reported the sale at the Secretary's office.

"We are informed that you have bought a wherry from Mr. Robert Farrell," said the oficer.

"That is so," said Nuttall, who conceived that for him this was the end of the world.

"You are in no haste, it seems, to declare the same at the Secretary's office." The emissary had a proper bureaucratic haughtiness.

Nuttall's weak eyes blinked at a redoubled rate.

"To . . . to declare it?"

"Ye know it's the law."

"'I . . . I didn't, may it please you.'

"But it's in the proclamation published last January."

"I . . . I can't read, sir. I . . . I didn't know."

"Faugh!" The messenger withered him with his disdain. "Well, now you're informed. See to it that you are at the Secretary's office before noon with the ten pounds surety into which you are obliged to enter."

The pompous officer departed, leaving Nuttall in a cold perspiration despite the heat of the morning. He thought it very likely that the whole plot would be discovered, and that he would probably be hanged, or at least branded and sold into slavery like those other damned rebel-convicts, with whom he had been so mad as to associate himself.

Nuttall snatched up his hat, and went out in quest of Peter Blood. But where look for him?

Finally he determined to go up to Colonel Bishop's plantation. Probably Blood would be there. If he were not, Nuttall would find Pitt, and leave a message with him. He was acquainted with Pitt and knew of Pitt's share in this business. His pretext for seeking Blood must be that he needed medical assistance.

And at the same time that he set out, Blood was setting out from Government House at last, having so far eased the Governor's condition as to be permitted to depart. Being mounted, he would, but for an unexpected delay, have reached the stockade ahead of Nuttall, in which case several unhappy events might have been averted. The unexpected delay was occasioned by Miss Arabella Bishop.

They met at the gate of the luxuriant garden of Government House, and Miss Bishop, herself mounted, stared to see Peter Blood on horesback.

"Good morning, sir," she hailed him pleasantly. "It's close upon a month since last I saw you."

"Twenty-one days to the hour," said he. "I've counted them."

If he would wait a moment they would ride back together. She had but come to inquire of the Governor's health at her uncle's request.

So he waited, and so they rode back to Colonel Bishop's house. They rode oblivious of all others in the world that morning. He was telling her the story of his early turbulent days.

CHAPTER VII

Pirates.

Mr. James Nuttall made all speed, regardless of the heat, in his journey from Bridgetown to Colonel Bishop's plantation, where he learned that Dr. Blood was not at home. A man of sense might have sat down and waited, judging that to be the quickest and surest way in the end. But Nuttall had no sense. He blundered to the end of the avenue, around the corner of it, and there ran into Pitt, alone, tolling with a wooden spade upon an irrigation channel. Pitt stared at him, and the shipwright poured out his dismal news in a dismal tone.

Round the block of cane came a big man in biscuit-colored taffetas followed by two negroes in cotton drawers who were armed with cutlasses.

Mr. Nuttall looked wildly this way and that a moment, then bolted like a rabbit for the woods. Pitt groaned and stood still, leaning upon his spade.

"Hi, there! Stop!" bawled Colonel Bishop after the fugitive.

But the fugitive never so much as turned his head.

He turned now upon the slave a countenance that was inflamed by heat internal and external.

"Who was that runagate?" he asked with terrible suavity.

Leaning over on his spade, Jeremy Pitt hung his head a little, and shifted uncomfortably on his bare feet.

Jeremy looked at the burly planter out of sullen, almost defiant eyes.

"I don't know," he said, and in his voice there was a faint note at least of defiance.

HUNTER ARRESTED

Frank R. Mitchell of Lamanda Park today was looking for $15. It is a matter of $15 or fifteen days in jail. After Mitchell had gone to the trouble of climbing a 14-strand barbed wire fence in order to shoot ducks on the rest pond of a gun club near Sunset Beach, his sport was spoilt by Vernon Myers, who haled Mitchell before Justice of the Peace J. B. Cox. Mitchell pleaded guilty. Judge Cox gave him until tonight to raise $15. Otherwise Mitchell gets fifteen days in jail and no ducks.

LOCATE THE FAIR AT SANTA ANA

It would seem to be the part of wisdom to locate the Orange County Fair permanently at the county seat of Orange county, which is also the metropolis of Orange county.

If for no other reason, the matter of practicability points to the selection of Santa Ana. Any other site that would be at all suitable in general characteristics, and satisfactory to even a large majority of the people of the county, would cost more money than it would be possible to raise for the purpose.

In considering the financial success of the fair, attendance is of prime importance. After conducting the fair for a number of years, the committees at Huntington Beach voluntarily surrendered their claims to the big county show. The reason for giving it up went back to the one item of attendance. The beach people found that a bigger attendance than it was possible for them to get was necessary in order to make the fair pay its way. They declared that they were too far away from the centers of population to make the grade on gate receipts.

Those who have studied the financing problems of the fair closely are practically unanimous in their belief that the fairgrounds should be so located that great numbers of people would pay their way into the grounds not once but several times during the week of the fair. To meet this condition, it seems necessary to have the grounds located in the largest city in the county.

The matter, too, of underwriting the fair is of considerable consequence. It is taken for granted that signatures to an agreement to stand the loss that might be caused by adverse weather conditions, which would cut down gate receipts, can be secured with greater ease in a large community than would be possible if the grounds were located at some point where no particular city felt it a duty to handle that phase of the fair's management.

Perhaps, the most decisive element in bringing The Register to a belief that the fair ought by all means to be permanently located in Santa Ana was the decision of the directors of the Farm Bureau that it should be so located. Whatever else may appear in the making of the fair a worth while exhibition, the essentials and big necessities of the fair are produced by the farm centers. They are the the exhibitors who really make the fair. Their fruits, vegetables, walnuts, poultry, and live stock are the backbone of the whole show. And the directors of the fair are fully justified in giving first consideration to the wants of the Farm Bureau.

MEDICAL AID IN RUSSIA

Many Americans know in a vague way that part of the work of the American Relief Administration in Russia was concerned with furnishing medical supplies. It is interesting to learn how extensive that service has been.

A report quoted in the current World's Work states that in a single month, when the medical operations were at their height, the Relief Administration aided with supplies 1,663 hospitals, containing 120,858 beds; 818 ambulatories, serving daily 75,329 patients; 819 children's homes totalling 60,031 inmates.

In addition, the organization has distributed three-fourths of the 97,110 boxes, barrels, bales and cases of medical equipment sent to it. It has supplies vaccines and serums sufficient to inoculate millions of persons, and has imported 70,000 doses of neo-salvarsan, a specific aganist typhus recurrence.

It took into Russia 8,000,000 cubic centimeters of typhoid-cholera vaccine, 91,000,000 units of anti-diphtheritic serum, 8,000,000 units of anti-tetanic serum, 4,500,000 doses of small-pox vaccine and 300,000 cubic centimeters of anti-dysenteric serum. Such supplies as bed linen, rubber goods, bandages and cotton and laboratory equipment have been distributed generously.

These figures are rather amazing, and at the same time deeply gratifying. They represent tremendous accomplishment in checking disease epidemics in Russia and stopping their spread to other countries. Literally millions of persons in Russia are in more nearly good health than they could possibly have been without this aid. And that means incalculable benefit to millions in other lands—including the United States of America.

WOMEN IN WALL STREET

Those who picture the famous Wall Street in New York as populated solely by financial kings, fat brokers, slick-haired male clerks and shouting spectators have another guess coming. One-half of the people busy in that center of world finance are women. They are not there as speculators but they are there by the thousand as stenographers, typists, secretaries, librarians, bank clerks and occupants of executive positions.

One of the big Wall Street banks employs 1000 women—a third of its pay-roll. In many smaller concerns fifty per cent of the employes are women. These women are showing themselves as competent, as reliable and as fully to be trusted with confidential matters as their male associates.

The prominence of women in this particular field is a marked illustration of how the sex has advanced in its economic conquest. Those who still figure that for any reason the business world can or should be restored entirely to the hands of the sterner sex have quite failed to grasp the situation.

PRICES AND LOANS

According to a recent estimate, prices in this country are about 154 per cent of what they were in 1913.

So the cost of living, in spite of considerable reduction, is still half again as high as it was before the war. Most people's interest in the matter ends with that reflection. But there are other important conclusions that might be drawn, especially with regard to the effect on investments.

It is plain that a 6 per cent dividend on stock or 6 per cent interest bonds is really only the equivalent of 4 per cent before the war, because it will only buy as much now as 4 per cent would have bought then.

A loan made before the war, drawing 6 per cent interest right along, is really bringing in now only two-thirds as much income as it did originally. An equivalent income now would be 9 per cent.

Likewise, since a sum of money borrowed 10 years ago will only buy two-thirds as much now as it would then, it is only worth two-thirds as much when it is paid back. Thus the lender, receiving the same number of dollars he lent 10 years ago, loses one-third of his principal. The borrower gains accordingly, though that is often harder to demonstrate.

The principle involved is something for anybody who contemplates either borrownig or lending, to think about. Profit or loss depends on the fluctuation in the value of the dollar up or down. If prices are going up—and dollars down—it is going to be profitable to borrow money, provided the interest rates do not rise proportionately. If prices are going down, it is going to be profitable to lend money, because the dollars, when paid back, will buy more than they would when the loan was made.

Fruit Shipments via Panama

San Francisco Chronicle

The transcontinental railroads are of far more importance to the people of this State than any form of coastwise service to the Atlantic Coast. They make far more territory available to us. Moreover, their plants are fixed and must be operated where they are, while if ship owners do not find a particular service profitable they can and will send their ships elsewhere.

Nevertheless freight must, will and should seek the cheapest and most satisfactory line of service, and with modern improvements in handling and refrigeration on ships it seems to be settled that a very large part of our citrus and other fresh-fruit shipments to the Eastern States will go by Panama. The part of the fruit which will move that way will be determined by what territory can be best served by sea freight plus local rail cost at each end of the line.

The fruit people are now so organized that they can make firm and reliable seasonal contracts for immense volumes of fruit if sailings can be made often enough. That will be the crucial test. Some fruits must have the daily service, which only the rail carriers can give at present, but that the Panama route will get a very large volume of business, especially of citrus fruit, is certain. A company has been organized, said to be in co-operation with the organized fruit growers, although whether the organizations will take stock in the company, or to what extent, is not yet stated.

Respect for the Law

San Diego Union.

There should be no difference of opinion among our school authorities regarding enforcement of the law prohibiting children of the public schools from affiliating themselves with secret organizations within the jurisdiction of the schools. Neither should there be any necessity to hale these pupils to the juvenile courts. It is not a question as to the advisability or wisdom of the law itself; it is merely a matter of strict enforcement of the law, and in that there is no discretion provided for action by the school boards and principals of the various schools. If a majority of the people of California are opposed to the law they can easily repeal it—but by ordered and constitutional processes.

The elementary schools are unsafe places in which to overlook or dally with infraction of the law. It is in these schools that the youth of the nation should be taught respect for the law; not encouraged to pass their own judgment upon the statutes. Both parents and teachers should impress this fact upon the plastic minds of the children, for in that sort of instruction more than any other is the foundation of good citizenship.

Only in the last resort should the threat of admonition or punishment by the juvenile court be necessary; and avoidance of that stigma lies chiefly with the authority of the parents. This is a matter that in existing local circumstances should engage the earnest attention of the Parent-Teachers' association. Parents, as a rule, are rather inclined to accept the judgment of their children in relation to their school affairs, and the slightest hint of "oppression" or "injustice" is likely to make the unthinking parent an active partisan in the quarrel of his son or daughter with the school authorities.

It is the plain duty of the teacher to enforce the law, but, as in all misdemeanor, there is a certain latitude allowed which, if wisely exercised, can effect the purpose quite as well as the drastic enforcement of the law. When that discretion has failed to serve its intent the authorities are themselves in the attitude of accomplices after the fact if they do not apply the remedy provided by law.

Solving the Jury Problem

San Bernardino Telegram.

Eighteen of the 22 judges in Los Angeles favor the recommendation of the Los Angeles County Grand Jury that existing statutes be changed to permit juries in criminal cases to return verdicts by a three-fourths majority. Nowhere else on this continent is the problem so pressing as in Los Angeles and perhaps nowhere else has so much thought been given to it. The remedy proposed there cannot be dismissed without careful study.

But the proposal lacks the merit of that made elsewhere that permanent juries, serving for a definite term of years, be established. The difficulty of the modern jury would not be met by eliminating the present system that permits a minority of one or two or three to precipitate a mistrial. It lies rather in conditions than in persons. Modern methods of publicity have removed the just basis upon which the jury system has rested since its inauguration. The talesmen enters the panel in a spectacular case with a preconceived opinion or he is a dullard incapable of basing judgment on a given array of facts.

Ultimately a method must be erected wherein the jury merits the same degree of confidence reposed in the trial judge. Nobody believes the latter is swayed in a given instance by the facts brought to his attention through the newspapers or elsewhere than in court. Nobody believes he cannot exclude from consideration every item of fact except that brought judicially before him. When permanent juries are established, composed of men of calibre equal to the bench, existing abuses will disappear.

To Head University

Pasadena Star-News)

Great interest has been manifest throughout the state in the question as to who would succeed Dr. David P. Barrows as president of the University of California. The question is answered in announcement that Dr. W. W. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory, has been chosen to this highly important educational post.

Dr. Campbell was born on an Ohio farm and has given his attention to educational work since his early years. He is known throughout the scientific world for his notable achievements in astronomy as head of the great Lick Observatory, on Mount Hamilton. Scientific expeditions from this world-famous observatory have been sent, under Dr. Campbell's direction, to Australia, India, Spain and elsewhere, to observe solar eclipses and to gather astronomical information.

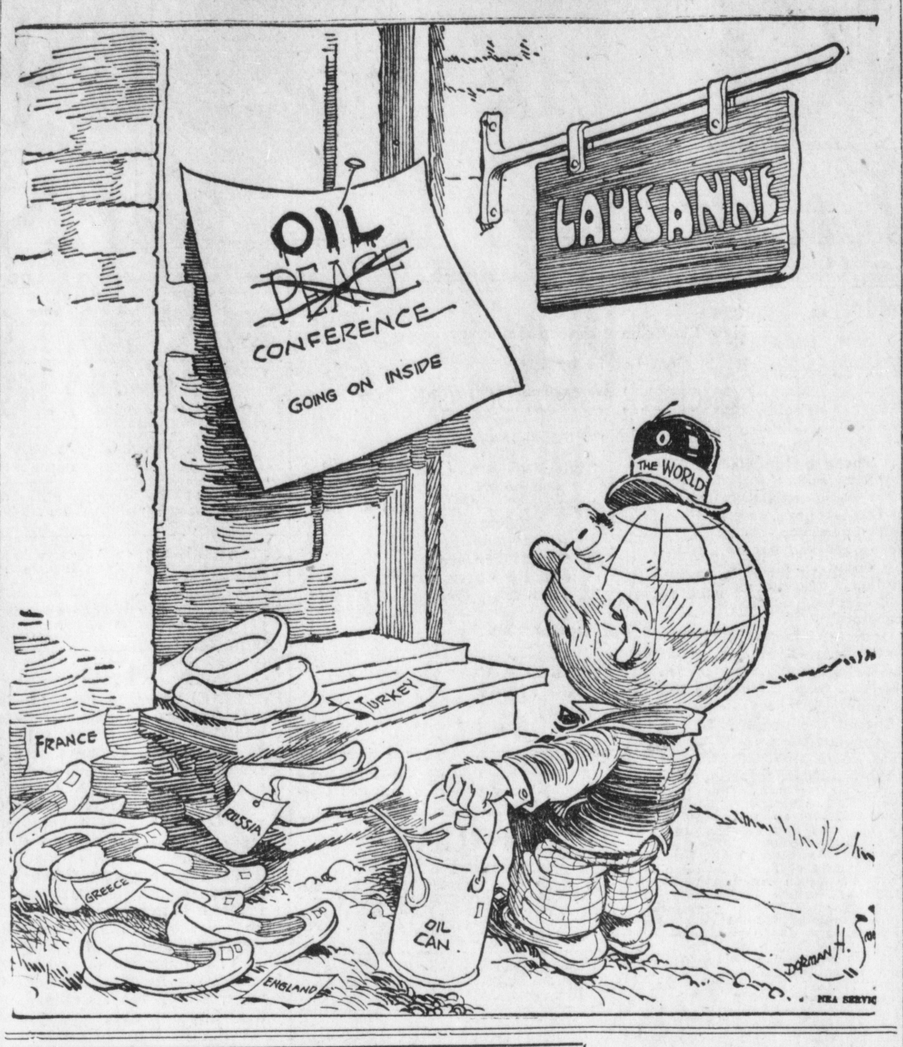

The University of California has developed marvelously, until it ranks among the foremost institutions of learning in the United States. To attain the presidency of this great educational center is a high honor indeed.

It Smells Like a Filling Station

Complacent Patriots

American Legion Weekly

Americans too often dismiss all Europeans as "those ignorant foreigners." This is patriotic complacency. Also it is patriotic ignorance. In the most vital of all cultural agencies—the mere teaching of their citizens to read and write—Holland, England, France, Finland, and all the Scandinavian countries excel the United States. The average north European could more aptly speak of America as the home of "those ignorant Yankees."

These are hard facts. Six per cent of all Americans are illiterate. Germany, Holland and the Scandinavian countries have only 1 per cent of illiterates or less. In 1910 there were 5,516,163 illiterates in this country. In 1920 the number had been reduced to 4,931,905. At this rate it will take the United States about eighty-four years to reach the high educational standards of Germany.

The teaching of reading and writing is not all. Millions of Americans who are not classed as illiterates can read and write but have let their education expire with just those two accomplishments. Hundreds of thousands of aliens in America cannot speak English. They huddle together in colonies in our large cities. Revolutionary radicals find them and educate them in radicalism. Give the radicals credit. They do not wait for the aliens to step forth and ask to be taught political insanity; they hunt up their own pupils.

That is one reason why the American Legion has been sponsoring National Educational week. American ideals are unsafe so long as native born Americans themselves are complacent about them. Our ideals are doubly unsafe so long as we ourselves do not live up to them. One of our ideals is universal education, which is a means toward our most rudimentary constitutional ideal —equality of opportunity. We will never achieve our own ideals while we permit citizens and residents of the nation to handicap themselves by illiteracy.

Time to Smile

WIND HAS ITS USES.

While on his recent visit to this country, Marshal Foch made a witty reply to a man who, when one of the guests at a dinner party in Denver, given by a party of Americans, took exception to French politeness. "There is nothing in it but wind," he said with questionable taste.

"Neither is there anything but wind in a pneumatic tire," retorted the gallant marshal, "yet it eases the jolts along life's highway wonderfully."—Argonaut.

"Yes."

IN THE LONG AGO

From the Register Files

January 6, 1909.

R. T. Harris last night asked the directors of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association for advice as to whether suits should be brought to collect assessments from stockholders of the Pacific Soda company. About $80,000 was subscribed. There was $30,000 spent on a plant at Aliso and $30,000 on the desert. Rains washed away the soda deposits at the desert plant, and the company will have to wait for the crust to form again.

At the annual meeting of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association officers were chosen as follows: President, E. B. Trago; vice-president, E. A. White; treasurer, H. T. Rutherford; secretary, N. A. Ulm; attorney, H. J. Forgey; directors, John McFadden, V. E. Blodgett, E. B. Trago, A. Vandermast, C. P. Kryhl, J. E. Liebig, E. A. White, C. D. Baker, A. H. Pease, W. N. Prince, H. T. Rutherford, J. W. Tubbs, G. P. Hill, N. A. Ulm and William Cochems.

Marriage licenses: Walter Nale and Evelnie Shrode, both of Bolsa; William A. Obarr and Katherine Holland, both of Santa Ana.

Because it was unable to finance its project, the glass factory company that had expected to locate here will surrender its contract for a site on the M. and M. property on East Washington avenue.

THE WEST FIFTH BOND ISSUE

Editor Register:—West Fifth street is an important inlet to our city and no doubt should be paved full width to the city limits, but in regard to a bond issue for a part of the cost, we must not forget that a bonding proposal was submitted once and defeated, and it might be well to make some comparisons before submitting it again.

I am particularly familiar with Fairview avenue, which has been ordered paved from Main to Flower, and have asked the city council to specify 7-inch pavement, when the proceedings are begun. On this street are three frontages from 486 feet to 863 feet—yet no city aid was asked, although the street carries considerable storm water at times.

The east end of the proposed improvement is almost exactly the same distance from Fourth and Main as Baker at Fifth, which is the east end of the proposed improvement on Fifth.

The late M. R. Heninger, who perhaps did more real improvement in Santa Ana in recent years than any other man, used to say that any good lot in the residene district was worth $100 more plus the cost of the improvement, after paving than it was before street work, etc., was done.

If we concede that, and I believe we will, why should the city be called upon to vote bonds, where approximately 75 per cent of the property is already in city lots and the balance valuable property, as is the case as far west as Artesia on Fifth.

The west end of West Fifth street is different in several ways. It is lower and apparently less valuable land, larger holdings not as desirable for city lots, so that the proposed paving might be a very heavy burden.

Here is hoping that the water and fire department bond issues be submitted and carried, and the West Fifth street issue be submitted in form that will meet with public approval.

Nobody Home

By Berton Braley

In matters intellectual she's somewhat ineffectual,
She's more or less a dumb-bell, as it were.
Her talk is sheer inanity, her head is full of vanity,
And yet you like to run around with her.
Her cookery's deplorable, but, oh, her smile's adorable,
And there's a wondrous magic in her glance;
She's lacking in ability or any true utility,
But she's a floating feather in a dance!

She doesn't toil or spin at all or aid her married kin at all,
She doesn't help her mother or her dad,
It keeps those parents hurrying and figuring and worrying
To earn the dainty garb in which she's clad;
But when they see the pep of her, the grace in every step of her.
Her loveliness, her airy-fairy style,
They cannot view her fretfully; and somehow unregretfully
They feel each cent they've spent is worth the while!

The butterfly is glorious, you don't become censorious
Because it doesn't labor at a task;
Perhaps it is undutiful, but if it's gay and beautiful
That's just about as much as you can ask.
And when a girl is kissable, with prettiness unmissable.
Why moan because she isn't keen and wise?
We should assume an attitude of undiluted gratitude
That such a lovely picture greets our eyes!

THE PLACE HE'D LEFT LOOKED GOOD TO HIM.

Jim Jenkins, when he was a boy, used to reside in Illinois, and later when he took the train, and journeyed eastward into Maine, he often used to call to mind the good old state he'd left behind. One morning found him on a ship, bound for an Oriental trip, but when he landed in Japan he was a disappointed man, and started to rue the day he'd ever left the U. S. A. But when he traveled into China he said that old Japan was finer. No place was suited to his mind except the one he'd left behind; no town to him was half so dear as when he'd left it in the rear. The only really worthwhile spot was just the one where he was not. Even California's clime was only pleasing for a time, though when he'd left its sunny coast he said h'd always loved it most. One morning Peter saw him just outside the Pearly Gate. Said he, "You've wished for many a year that you could come and live up here. Now take your choice of all the sky—we aim to please and satisfy. Choose your crown and choose your star: you're right where all the angels are." But while he thusly wagged his beard, Jim had gently disappeared.

Phonographs

The census shows that about $98,000,000 worth of talking machines and records were manufactured in America last year, against about $159,000,000 in 1919.

Near-sighted economists are seizing on these figures and talking about "tremendous decline in phonograph production."

The decline, you'll notice, is revealed only in money, reflecting lower prices. In actual number of phonographs and records, there was a big gain. It's hard to get the price idea out of the brain and think of economics in terms of actual commodities.

Life

New discoveries are made about the life-giving powers of the blood's white corpuscles, which protect the body against germ, infection and stimulate the growth of new tissues.

These discoveries, which some scientists believe may lead to making people live longer, are announced by Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute.

The announcement is important, for Dr. Carrel is a medical scientist of high ethical standing in his profession. Usually these startling predictions come from professional self-advertisers.

Adventures of the Twins

Buster in Dreamland

By Olive Roberts Barton

Buster Cinnamon Bear was asleep for the winter.

Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat, the dwarf Sandman, had tucked him in and covered him up.

Then things began to happen.

He was awakened with a bump. He had been dreaming that he was on a toboggan-sled having a nice whizzy ride down a steep hill when bump—it was all over!

Suddenly a complaining voce said, "Say! Who do you think you are, crowding in like this without being asked! Move over!"

"Huh!" grunted Buster. "I didn't ask to come here and I'm just as crowded as you are. Where am I, anyway?"

"Well I declare!" said the voice. "Say, fellows, this teddy-bear wonders where he is. Ha, ha! That's a good joke."

"Teddy-bear! I'm no more a teddy-bear than you are," retorted Buster. "And I'd thank you kindly to tell me where I am."

"Well if you are no more a teddy-bear than I am, you are a teddy-bear just the same, and I'm a teddy-bear myself," said the other. "And we're both in a counter in a toy-store. But as it is night, the store is closed and the lights are out and we are all covered up with a big cloth. There were six bears in this counter before you came. You make seven. Now you know all about it."

"Hoop de doodle!" cried Buster. "Am I really a teddy-bear, stuffed with sawdust and sewed up at the seams? And have I shoe-buttons for eyes 'n' everything? I've always wanted to be one so I could live in a house and play with the children and hear the music. What's that?"

"Hush!" said the other teddy-bear. "It's daylight now and the store is being opened. Soon they'll take our covers off and customers will come in and look around and buy."

"Will they buy me?" asked Buster.

"Perhaps," said the bear.

Just then the cover was lifted and a little girl with curls stood beside the shopkeeper. She looked over the bears, then picked up Buster. "I like this one best," she said.

"I wonder if I'm dreaming," said Buster happily as the little girl tucked him under her arm.
